EARTHQUAKE SHOCKS CONTINUE IN ROME

ROME, JAN. 14.—ITALY'S LATEST EARTHQUAKE HORROR MAY BE THE WORST THAT COUNTRY HAS EVER SUFFERED. THOUGH COMMUNICATION WITH THE CENTRE OF THE DISTRICT STRICKEN BY YESTEDAY'S QUAKE HAD NOT BEEN RESTORED THIS AFTERNOON ADVICES RECEIVED BY PREMIER SALANDRA INDICATED THAT THE DEAD WOULD NUMBER AT LEAST 25,000 AND THE INJURED 35,000, A TOTAL OF 60,000 CASUALTIES.

Late dispatches of the Associated Press state:

"Latest estimates set the number of killed or wounded at 50,000, including dead and injured, but fear is felt here that the list will be swollen by later figures.

"Official reports received this morning from Avezzano place the killed in that and surrounding towns at 15,000."

By BRIXTON D'ALLAIRE, Boston American Correspondent.

(SPECIAL CABLE TO THE BOSTON AMERICAN.)

NAPLES, Jan. 14.–(Bulletin)–A brief dispatch received here today after communication had been restored between Naples and Solmona, twenty-two miles east of Avezzano, said that the loss of life at Avezzano had not been large and that early reports of the casualties in the surrounding district had been greatly exaggerated. This and other reports received by government officials here led them to declare that the loss of life in the earthquake would not go above 2,000.

The most severe of these shocks occurred at 3 o'clock. A number of persons fled from their homes and feared to return until after daylight appeared.

NURSE RESUMES STORY IN RYAN PROMISE SUIT

Henry J. King, brother-in-law of Miss Elizabeth M. Ryan, who is suing Harry K. Mansfield, proprietor of the Pemeroft Inn, for $50,000 for alleged breach of promise, testified in the trial of the suit today that Mansfield had said to him:

"Bess (Miss Ryan) and I are going to marry."

To this King says he replied:

"Sure, get married and then you'll be happy."

Miss Mabel Kennedy, trained nurse in New York, resumed her testimony today.

She was cross-examined by Attorney Michael L. Sullivan of Salem. Miss Kennedy sat during her testimony. She was quizzed concerning the hour Miss Ryan and Mr. Mansfield left her at the Nurses' Home, prior to the dinner at the Claremont the following day. She was not certain as to the hour of departure of Miss Ryan and Mr. Mansfield. She could not say whether it was 11 o'clock or earlier.

She was next questioned concerning the mode of procedure to become lodgers at the Nurses' Home in New York. She said she never made any inquiries.

SIGNED HER NAME.

Q.—Didn't you register there? A.—I signed my name.

Q.—So that in 1907 and 1908 a record was kept of who lived at the Nurses' Home? A.—Yes.

In her previous testimony Miss Kennedy told of a visit with Mr. Mansfield to a New York shop to buy a sweater for Miss Ryan's use at a football game. She was sure she did not meet Mr. Mansfield at No. 323 West Fifty-seventh street, New York, the morning she went for the sweater.

Q.—Now, you saw Mr. Mansfield on two occasions? A.—No, it was on three occasions.

Miss Kennedy said she was at the Claremont restaurant on Riverside drive with Miss Ryan and Mr. Mansfield and heard the conversation about the marriage.

She was asked if she was present at the opening of the trial, and whether she heard Miss Ryan testify concerning what was said about the marriage.

Miss Kennedy said she was not present at the opening of the trial.

Q.—You were here the third day when Miss Ryan was cross-examined? A.—Yes.

Q.—Then you heard Miss Ryan say, "At the time we met Mr. Mansfield at the Manhattan Hotel in New York we all went to the Claremont to lunch. He said to Mabel he was a 'long time trying to get me'—you heard Miss Ryan testify to that, did you not? A.—I may have.

CARVER, HELD IN $35,000 THEFT, SURRENDERS

Samuel Carver, the attorney indicted on January 9 on charges of larceny of $35,000 in mortgage proceedings, surrendered at police headquarters today.

Carver had been given until yesterday to come to headquarters. Yesterday he telephoned for a day's more time, in order to make surety arrangements. The extension was granted.

Carver came alone to headquarters and announced himself to Inspector Silas P. Waite.

In the indictment Carver is charged with larceny of $10,000 from Lewis L. Löri of No. 42 Tremont street and of larceny of $25,000 from Julius Rothenberg.

Carver is a graduate of the English High School and from Boston University, class of 1906.

He lost money in the second aviation meet at Squantum. He backed the enterprise and, when it did not make openses, made good on bills to an estimated amount of $45,000.

Germans Tell "Big Air Raid on London"

LONDON, Jan. 14.—G. F. Seward wires to the London Daily News from Rotterdam:

"Most of the latest German newspapers received here contain screaming headlines about the Zeppelin attack against London. In the Augemeine Zeitung is a printed message from Copenhagen which does not bear out half the headlines assert. It is a clear admission the raid, if it was attempted, was a gigantic failure."

Italians Abroad Ready for War

CHIASSO (Swiss-Italian Frontier), Jan. 14.—Preparations for war are increasing. Ricciotti Garibaldi is receiving thousands of letters from Italians wishing to enlist. Some of them come from abroad, mostly from America. The French government has announced that it will allow all Italian volunteers now in France to return to Italy if the latter enters the war.

No New Cardinals, but Plea for Peace

ROME, Jan. 14.—Pope Benedict will hold a consistory January 22. No new cardinals will be created. The important event during the consistory will be an allocution in which it is believed Pope Benedict will deal with the European war.

TAX DISPUTE OVER WAKEFIELD CRIME

Representative Alfred J. Moore of Boston today filed at the State House a petition for a law giving the Mayor of Boston power to appoint the police commissioner and the members of the Excise Commission.

"Boston ought to have home rule," said Mr. Moore. "The city should certainly have the voice in the control of its own affairs.

"If the Mayor desires better police protection for a certain place he ought to have the authority to see that the better police protection is afforded. There is the instance of the Fenway, where there is a demand for better police protection for girls and women. The Mayor should have the power to see that the Fenway secured this protection.

"Boston needs fair play in the organization of its police department, and like the other cities and towns of this Commonwealth should have the say as to who the head of its police department should be or how the department should be managed. Boston does not get the justice that is due her.

"If the people of Boston do not believe they get a square deal from the head of the police department there is no appeal except to the State House. There is no legitimate reason why the Boston police department should be associated with the State House and not with the people of the city.

"If the president of Simmons College asked for better police protection for the Fenway, and the police commissioner refused, the college head would have to abide by that decision. I am going to investigate the Fenway situation and I am going to ask Former Representative Twohig of South Boston if he believes he got a square deal from the police department in the case of the girl cripple who was placed under arrest.

POLLOCK RIP LIGHTSHIP ADRIFT

WOODS HOLE, Jan. 14.—The Pollock Rip Lightship, one of the most important marine beacons on the Atlantic coast, has drifted a mile from her station and is anchored six miles off Chatham. The lighthouse tender, summoned from New Bedford harbor, has gone to the lightship's aid.

Observers at Chatham reported that the lightship seemed to have been terribly battered by the blizzard. The mere fact of the lightship dragging her heavy anchors so as to drift a mile from her regular moorings is proof of a terrible pounding by the wind and sea. In addition, the shore observers reported that the lightship's deck seemed to be swept clean of small boats, a further indication of a hard time.

Resumption of cable service to Marion's vineyard today gave the first news that the [illegible] which lashed the south side of that island wasted away a fourteen-mile stretch of coast, carrying down telephone poles and breaking the cable line. Temporary repair has just been made on the cable to mainland.

Some of the wounded came from the French hospital, over which the Turks flew the Turkish flag. The American ambassador, the dispatch adds, protested against this and insisted that the Turkish flag should be replaced by the American flag, because French interests were in the care of the American Embassy.

Asks $1,000,000 for Feeble Minded

Representative George J. Wall of Boston today filed a bill in the Legislature seeking the appropriation of $1,000,000 for the erection of a Massachusetts School for Feeble Minded in Waltham on land already purchased. Waltham property owners have protested against the erection of a school there. Plans call for accommodations for 2,000 patients. At present 4,500 feeble minded patients, whose relatives live in the metropolitan district, are scattered in institutions throughout the State. Relatives complain of the trouble and expense in visiting them. A central institution near Boston has long been agitated.

QUAKE IN ITALY RECORDED HERE

The first shock was detected by the Harvard apparatus at two minutes and forty-five seconds past 2 o'clock yesterday morning. The secondary motion was registered at eleven minutes and one second past two. The main shock was recorded at 2:19:21.

From the records of the seismograph J. Backus Woodworth, associate professor of geology at Harvard, calculated the distance from Boston to the origin of the seismic disturbance to be 4,977 miles, which would place the earthquake centre about sixty miles east of Rome. The mid-European time of the shock was 7:52:45 a. m.

Professor Woodworth could not tell the direction of the shock on account of the beating of the surf along the coast due to the storm.

"It was not a great earthquake as earthquakes go," said Professor Woodworth.

DESPERATE FIGHTING ALONG BIG WESTERN BATTLE LINE

LONDON, Jan. 14.—The concentrated fire of the allies' artillery is destroying the town of Westende, occupied by the Germans, on the Belgian North Sea coast, according to an official statement issued by the German War Office today.

The Berlin statement also tells of a daring night attack by the Germans under the eyes of Emperor William himself, in which they captured fourteen officers, 1,130 men, four cannon and four machine guns, besides a searchlight. The German report follows:

"In the western theatre of war, in the Dunes of Nieuport and southeast of Ypres, artillery combats are continuing. The enemy's batteries have directed an extremely strong fire on Westende, which they will soon entirely destroy. The enemy's torpedo

GREAT LOSS OF LIFE AND PROPERTY BY EARTHQUAKE THAT SHAKES ITALY

Every effort was made today to re-establish communication with Avezzano, a town only sixty miles from Rome, where the reports said between 8,000 and 15,000 had been killed.

More than twenty towns and villages were wrecked or destroyed by the earthquake. It is believed that more than 25,000 were injured. At least 100,000 are homeless.

KING VISITS QUAKE DISTRICTS.

The announcement was made at noon that King Victor Emmanuel had left Rome for the interior to visit the points where the earthquake was most severe. Two special trains left here early today carrying physicians, nurses and medical supplies.

On one of these trains was the Duchess D'Aosta, personal representative of the Queen, whose health prevented her from going to the sufferers. The Duchess will make a tour of all the damaged towns and head the relief work.

CABINET MEETS; $50,000 RAISED FOR QUICK RELIEF.

Premier Salandra, who also holds the portfolio of Minister of the Interior, cancelled a trip to Naples today and stayed in Rome to superintend relief measures here. A cabinet meeting was held this morning and it was decided to appropriate $50,000 at once for the relief of the suffering.

At the conclusion of the cabinet meeting the premier said to the AMERICAN correspondent:

FEAR SECOND MESSENA.

"We fear that this disaster is second to that at Messina in which more than 77,000 persons perished. We are hoping, of course, that the restoration of communication will show that the disaster was not as great as was at first feared, but the dispatches thus far received indicate 15,000 is a conservative estimate of the dead.

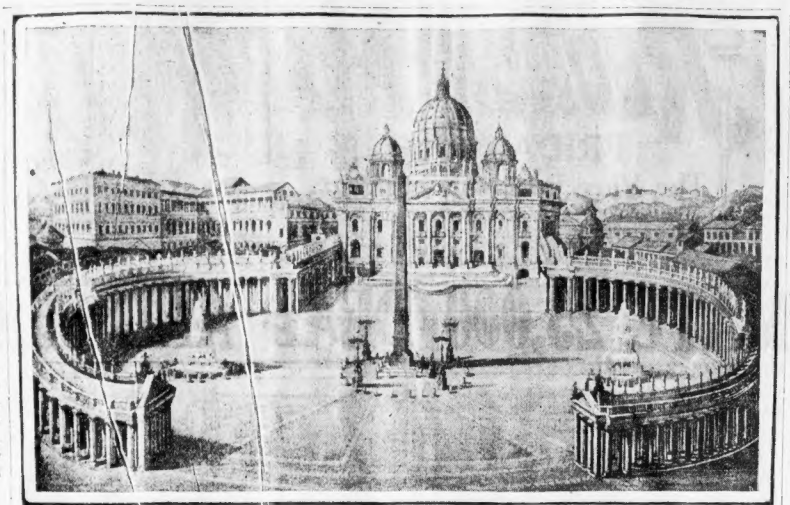
"Our relief efforts are already well underway. It is essential that they be carried out with all haste, as the weather in some of the districts affected by the earthquake is very cold, which will increase the suffering of the homeless.

"Though the damage here in Rome was also very severe the loss of life was very small and those who have been driven from their homes are being cared for."

At least fifty-seven buildings in Rome were more or less seriously damaged by the quake. More than 100 windows were broken in the great dome of St. Peter's. Eighty houses, among them some of the finest residences of Italy, were destroyed. The marble cross at the entrance to St. Paul's collapsed.

Officials of the Vatican report that among the windows broken in the building of the Vatican group were forty-six belonging to Michael Angelo's cupola. Several mosaics were damaged and the statue of the Redeemer, adorning the facade of the basilica, also suffered.

Special prayers for the quake sufferers were said by Pope Benedict XV. in his chapel during the morning and at the same time prelates throughout the quake-ridden districts were ordered to hold special services and to give what relief they could to the victims.



St. Peter's and the Vatican colonnade, damaged by the earthquake. The famous colonnade sank four feet and the obelisk in the centre was cracked and twisted.

TROOPS FOR RESCUE WORK.

General Zupelli, Minister of War, has dispatched 5,000 soldiers into the devastated sections to help care for the homeless and to clean up the debris. Food, blankets and tents from the military stores are being distributed among the sufferers. Two relief trains filled with surgeons and engineers and medical equipment were dispatched from Rome this morning and others were made up to be sent later in the day.

Word was received at noon that the first batch of wounded would arrive during the evening from Avezzano on a special train.

From the advices received by official and private agencies up to late this afternoon it is estimated that 100 were killed in Seva and 100 in Arpine. The towns of Palaxarabo, Bussi and Cuculle were said to have been razed. At Sora in the district of Abruzzi forty persons were crushed to death by falling wreckage. The province of Aquila suffered heavily. Forty persons are reported dead in the village of Mogliano in that province.

Apparently every city town and village in district of Abruzzi and the department of Campania suffered more or less. Most of the public buildings were damaged in some degree and many damaged collapsed entirely.

SURVIVOR'S STORY.

A refugee from Avezzano gave the following account of his experience:

"When the shock occurred I was driving near the town. I felt the ground rock and almost immediately I heard the screams of a girl who implored me to help dig out her father and sister, who had been buried in the collapse of their home.

"Presently I met two wounded soldiers, who told me that the town had been destroyed. I tried to drive into the town but could not do so on account of the debris which filled the streets and the dense clouds of dust and smoke which rose from the ruins. I was able to make my way near the site of the railway station, but found it a mass of ruins."

At Sora, in the province of Caserta, the cathedral was damaged and among the buildings razed were the railway station, the telegraph office and many dwellings.

Aquila, the best built commercial city in the Abruzzi, was hard hit. A hospital there collapsed, the debris burying the patients. Factory buildings in the neighborhood were cracked and tumbled.

A dispatch from Naples said:

"The Rev. Father Alfani, director of the Pompeii observatory, declares that the earthquake appears to have been most disastrous for a radius of more than 100 miles. He fixes the centre of the disturbance in the province of Potenza (compartment of Basilicata). Communication with the town of Potenza has been interrupted and a great disaster there is feared."

Potenza lies on the Adriatic Sea and has a population of about 2,500.

WARNING TO KEEP OUT OF WAR.

Some of the more imaginative expressed belief that the earthquake was a divine warning to Italy not to take part in the war, and this conclusion was not confined to the masses.

It was heard even in official and palace circles throughout the day. The superstitions looked upon the disaster as an omen which the Italian nation should heed.

The greater part of the territory in eastern Italy affected by the disturbance is mountainous country. In some places railway tunnels were destroyed and it will be months before rail traffic can resume its normal way.

The region most deeply affected extends for about 280 miles from north to south, and about 100 miles from the Mediterranean coast east toward the Adriatic Sea, with the heart of the most terribly stricken area being in the valley of the Central Appenines.

These mountains are not volcanic and the earthquake was not of volcanic origin, although from Naples it is reported that Vesuvius has been showing more than usual activity during the past twenty-four hours. Rome appears to have escaped fatalities, although some persons here were injured.

An Easy Way To End Catarrh Forever
Simple Home Treatment Destroys Germs of This Dangerous Disease.
The reason why so many people who suffer from Catarrh never seem able to get cured is that they are continually seeking the momentary relief of sprays, douching, greasy creams, ointments, etc. Such things do open up the swollen nostrils and clear the head temporarily beside stopping for a while the disgusting blowing, hawking, spitting and choking, but they never cure. NEARLY 77,000 WERE KILLED IN ITALIAN EARTHQUAKE OF 1908

Italy suffered the greatest disaster from an earthquake ever recorded, in December, 1908, when in Sicily and Calabria 76,482 persons were killed, 95,470 injured and 1,110,000 homeless.

In this disturbance Messina, Santa Teresa, Calleta and Faro in Sicily, Reggio, San Giovanni, San Ufemia, Gallico, Palmi, Pellaro and Sannitello in Calabria were destroyed. The financial loss was never accurately computed, but it ran into many millions of dollars.

Up to the time of this catastrophe the earthquake in Lisbon, Portugal, in 1755 caused the greatest number of casualties, 60,000 persons being killed.

The year of 1906 was the worst period for seismic disturbances on record. On the island of Formosa, the village of Kagi and three other towns were destroyed with the loss of thousands of lives and material wage estimated at $45,000,000. A month later Kagi again was visited with additional loss of life and much property damage.

A few months later Valparaiso was destroyed by earth shocks and a conflagration. Two thousand inhabitants were killed and a monetary loss of $250,000,000 resulted.

In 1907 came the disaster to Kingston, Jamaica, in which more than 1,000 lives were lost and $25,000,000 damage was done. Cartago, Costa Rica, lost 1,500 lives in 1910 from an earthquake and in Turkey in 1912, 3,000 persons perished and 40,000 were made homeless in a similar disaster.

Last year Sakura, Japan, was visited by an earthquake and the eruption of a volcano caused much property damage, but did not cause a large loss of life. Last May in Sicily 200 persons were killed and 1,000 injured.

CHURCH OF ST. JOHN, BURIAL PLACE OF POPE LEO, IS BADLY SHAKEN

The Church of St. John Lateran, shaken by the earthquake, in the edifice in which Cardinal O'Connell was consecrated as Bishop of Portland, Me. Cardinal Satolli officiated. It is the burial place of Pope Leo XIII, and is known as "the Mother of Churches." It is the oldest distinctively Catholic church in the world, and until well into the 14th Century it was the residence of the Pope.

The original structure, which had become the central building of a large series of buildings which constitute the modern Church of St. John Lateran, was a basilica in form. It was partly destroyed by an earthquake in 896, by fire in 1308 and by fire again in 1360. The church was not dedicated to St. John until the 12th Century. Previous to that it was the Basilica of the Lateran. It takes the later name from an old Roman family.

In 1650 the architect, Borromini, practically rebuilt the basilica. The cloister connected with the basilica and built by the architect, Vassalectus and his father in 1227, is said to be very similar in appearance to Mrs. Gardner's Italian palace in the Fenway.

POPE BENEDICT PRAYS AT MASS AS GIGANTIC EARTHQUAKE ROCKS ROME

Vatican and Many Public Buildings in the Italian Capital Are Damaged.

ROME, Jan. 14.—Pope Benedict was saying mass in the Vatican when the earthquake was felt. The chalice shook in his hand and nearly fell. The Pontiff held fast to the edge of the altar. He was very calm, and in a moment knelt and prayed, inviting every one to join with him. As the vibrations ceased the Pope resumed the ceremony in a low voice.

It was confirmed officially today that the towns of Pezcina and Celano in Abruzzi have been badly damaged. Many bodies are buried in the ruins. No estimate of the loss of life has been made.

Poli has 500 dead out of a population of 1,000. All the principal buildings have been wrecked.

Pezcina is a city of about 7,000. It is situated eleven miles southeast of Avezzano. It has a magnificent cathedral. Celano is twenty-eight miles southeast of Aquila. It has a population of about 12,000.

Tores Cajatani is reported to be destroyed, with large loss of life.

TOWN CUT OFF, WORST IS FEARED.

The town of Ailli, east of Rome, is reported destroyed with 1,000 dead and wounded. Magliano was also destroyed. Arpino has 150 dead.

Fatalities also are reported from Veroli, Tivoli, Poggio, Nativi and Poppi.

Campobasso, with a population of 18,000, is said to have suffered severely, as did also the ancient fortified city of Aquila.

These places, with numerous surrounding villages, are perched high on the mountains that form the backbone of the Italian peninsula.

Communication with the town of Potenza, ninety miles east of Naples, has been interrupted and a grave disaster there is feared. It has a population of 20,000. It was almost destroyed by earthquake in 1857.

Caserta, Sarno and several other cities forming a ring about Naples, and all within sight of Mount Vesuvius, were shaken and rocked by the earthquake so that buildings fell and many persons were injured.

Reports from Veroli, Perelo Sonnino, Velletri, Pilacciano, Subiaceo, Ciprano, Terracino, Treviripi, Torrici, Cori, Palestrino, Cervetri, Arricia, Vicovaro and San Vito indicate that the damage was extensive, although definite loss of life is not stated.

BARRACK COLLAPSED.

These are mostly small places which dot the populous mountainous district east and southeast of Rome.

At Sulmon the barracks collapsed, burying several soldiers and injuring a number of civilians.

Capello, in Abruzzo, was badly damaged, while at Prosinone the partial destruction of the prison resulted in the mutiny of the prisoners.

The most violent phase of the seismic disturbances appears to have been in the neighborhood of Veroli Monte Rotondo. Aid has been sent there from Rome.

The centre of the earthquake was between Sarno and Campobasso. It was felt powerfully at Perugia and shook houses as far north as Ferrara.

Wires are down in all directions and communication is difficult and slow.

AMBASSADOR IN DANGER.

In this city the damage was widespread. The famous colonnade decorating St. Peter's Square was lowered four feet. The adjacent house once occupied by the sisters of Pope Pius X. was badly damaged.

The dome of the Church of St. Charles Catinari was cracked. A section of the cornice of the Jesuit Church of St. Ignatius fell, creating a panic among the persons in the neighborhood.

In the Palazzo del Drago, where the American ambassador, Thomas Nelson Page, lives, several cracks in the building were materially widened.

In the Lateran Palace, especially that part occupied by the Profane Museum, cracks of sufficient size to permit the light from the outside penetrating the building were made. The hall of the Chamber of Deputies likewise was cracked.

Among other edifices damaged were the Churches of St. Andria Fratte and St. Agatha of the Goths, the latter the oldest church of Teutonic origin in Rome.

The frightened populace rushed into the churches, but the police ordered them out of those which were in danger of collapsing. In all the churches in the city after the shock had subsided special prayers were offered for deliverance from disaster.

With the exception of the earthquake disaster in Messina and Calabria in 1899, the present visitation is the most terrible in its effects Italy has known.

SARNO FAMED FOR WINES.

Campobasso and Sarno, where dispatches report the centre of the earthquake to have been, are widely separated. Campobasso is fifty-five miles north-northeast of Naples, and Sarno is twenty-five miles east of that city.

The interior of St. John's Lateran, Rome, shaken by the terrific shock. This is the oldest distinctively Catholic church in the world and until well into the fourteenth century was the residence of the popes.

Sarno had a population of 15,000 and was noted for its wine manufactures, and for a dozen or more magnificent villas in the outskirts. It is only one of a score of such towns lying in a circle near Naples, and which, it is believed, must have suffered equally with Sarno. Near Sarno are several famous gushing springs, and these formed the Sarno River, which runs down to the Mediterranean at Naples.

Sarno, while a thousand feet above the sea, was northeast of Mount Vesuvius, and in ancient times it was covered several times by ashes from that volcano.

Campobasso lies almost on top of the mountainous ridge that forms the backbone of Italy, and is nearer the Adriatic than the Mediterranean. It had a population of 18,000 in 1905 and was noted for its manufactures of cutlery and arms. The Italian government maintained a large arsenal there for the manufacture of small arms for the navy and army.

Caserta, a thriving city to the northeast of Naples, forming a ring of the cities, of which Sarno was one, had two famous shrines, one dating back to the time of Constantine the Great. This was a grotto at which cures were believed to have been effected, and to it pilgrimages have been made by cripples and the diseased for many centuries. The other shrine is said to hold the bones of St. John the Baptist and a piece of the crucifix.

Earthquake Shock Record in Cleveland

CLEVELAND, O., Jan. 14.—The earthquake shock in Italy was recorded in Cleveland by Father Odenbach's seismograph at St. Ignatius College. The instrument showed a slight wavering from 2:25 to 2:39 a. m. yesterday.

There Was Nothing So Good for Congestion and Colds as Mustard.

But the old-fashioned mustard-plaster burned and blistered while it acted. You can now get the relief and help that mustard plasters give, without the plaster and without the blister.

MUSTEROLE does it. It is a clean, white ointment, made with oil of mustard. It is scientifically prepared, so that it works wonders, and yet does not blister the tenderest skin.

Just massage MUSTEROLE in with the finger-tips gently. See how quickly it brings relief—how speedily the pain disappears.

And there is nothing like MUSTEROLE for Sore Throat, Bronchitis, Tonsilitis, Croup, Stiff Neck, Asthma, Neuralgia, Headache, Congestion, Pleurisy, Rheumatism, Lumbago, Pains and Aches of Back or Joints, Sprains, Sore Muscles, Bruises, Chilblains, Frosted Feet, Colds of the Chest (it often prevents Pneumonia).

At your druggist's, in 25c and 50c jars, and a special large hospital size for $2.50.

Be sure you get the genuine MUSTEROLE. Refuse imitations—and what you ask for: The Musterole Company, Cleveland, Ohio.

When I take down my ole fiddle
An' I rosum up the bow,
I find the sweetest music
In the tunes of long ago.
That's a kind o' mellow sweetness
In a good thing growin' old;
Each year that rolls around it,
Leaves an added touch o' gold.

We love the ole fren's better
Than we'll ever love the new.
We get the greatest comfort
When we wear the oldest shoe.
An' I find my greatest pleasure
When I'm smokin' fragrant, ripe
Age-mellowed, smooth, old VELVET
In my oldest, sweetest pipe.

Velvet Joe

A GOOD thing growin' old! Who would exchange a well thumbed, well loved old book, that the years have "mellowed" into a classic, for a dozen modern "best sellers?"

Who would lay by his "old familiar" pipe, nut-sweet and browned by use and smoke, for the finest, shiniest, newest pipe ever made?

You, who like the good things growin' old, will like VELVET, The Smoothest Smoking Tobacco—Kentucky's Burley de Luxe, with an aged-in-the-wood mellowness, the result of more than two years' careful curing.

How Thin People Can Put On Flesh

A New Discovery

Thin men and women—that big, hearty, filling dinner you ate last night. What became of all the fat-producing nourishment it contained? You haven't gained in weight one ounce. That food passed from your body like unburned coal through an iron grate. The material was there, but your food doesn't work and stick, and the plain truth is you hardly get enough nourishment from your meals to pay for the cost of cooking. This is true of thin folks the world over. Your nutritive organs, your functions of assimilating are badly out of gear and need reconstruction.

Cut out the foolish foods and fancy sawdust diets. Omit the flesh cream tuboons. Cut out everything but the meals you are eating now and eat with every one of those it will give such prompt relief as "Pape's Cold Compound," which costs only 25 cents at any drug store. It acts without assistance, tastes nice, and causes no inconvenience. Accept no substitute. Sold by Riker-Jaynes and all good druggists.—Advertisement.

Cut out the foolish foods and fancy sawdust diets. Omit the flesh cream tuboons. Cut out everything but the meals you are eating now and eat with every one of those a single Sargol tablet. In two weeks note the difference. Five to eight good solid pounds of healthy, "stay there" fat should be the net result. Sargol charges your weak, stagnant blood with millions of fresh new red blood cells—the kind that pep and vim come from. Sargol helps put the fat-producing material in your food where it will show results. Sargol is sold in this city under a positive guarantee of weight increase or money back.—Advertisement.

Correct Way to Treat Skin Diseases

Both air and water seem to have had effect upon skin diseases like eczema, of which there are many forms. Keeping out the water and air is the first thing to do. By using Cuticum Ointment, the well-known remedy for skin diseases, air and water are excluded, because Cuticum contains petrolatum and when the wax and these form a light covering over the sore places upon the skin. Cuticum also contains oil of cade, which has been successfully used many years by the medical profession in the treatment of eczema and other skin troubles. If your skin is irritated, irritated or sore, get a little box of Cuticum of your druggist and try it. The 25c size box contains nearly four times as much as the 50c size and is cheaper to buy.

GIRLS! LOTS OF BEAUTIFUL HAIR, NO DANDRUFF—25 CENT DANDERINE

Hair coming out? If dry, thin, faded, bring back its color and lustre.

A little Danderine immediately doubles the beauty of your hair. No difference how dull, faded, brittle and scraggy, just moisten a cloth with Danderine and carefully draw it through your hair, taking one small strand at a time. The effect is amazing—your hair will be light, fluffy and wavy, and have an appearance of abundance; an incomparable lustre, softness and luxuriance.

Get a 25 cent bottle of Knowlton's Danderine from any drug store or toilet counter, and prove that your hair is as pretty and soft as any—that it has been neglected or injured by careless treatment—that's all—you surely can have beautiful hair and lots of it if you will just try a little Danderine. REPORT OBREGON IN MEXICO CITY

EL PASO, Jan. 14—Carranzista headquarters received a dispatch from Vera Cruz today stating that General Zapata's troops were evacuating Mexico City and that General Obregon's victorious soldiers had entered the capital's eastern suburbs.

At Villa headquarters in Juarez this report was emphatically denied, it being asserted that no Carranza troops were in the vicinity of the capital.

A dispatch from Brownsville, Texas, says the vanguard of the Carranzista refugees from Monterey arrived at Matamoras today on special trains. Most of them were civilians, but they were accompanied by soldiers to prevent a surprise attack by Villaistas.

ACID IN STOMACH SOURS THE FOOD

Says Excess of Hydrochloric Acid is Cause of Indigestion.

A well-known authority states that stomach trouble and indigestion are nearly always due to acidity—acid stomach—and not, as most folks believe, from a lack of digestive juices. He states that an excess of hydrochloric acid in the stomach retards digestion and starts food fermentation, then our meals sour like garbage in a can, forming acrid fluids and gases which inflate the stomach like a toy balloon. We then get that heavy, lump feeling in the chest, we eructate sour food, belch gas, or have heartburn, flatulence, water-brash, or nausea.

He tells us to lay aside all digestive aids and instead, get from any pharmacy four ounces of Jad Salts and take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast while it is effervescing, and furthermore, to continue this for one week. While relief follows the first dose, it is important to neutralize the acidity, remove the gas-making mass, start the liver, stimulate the kidneys and thus promote a free flow of pure digestive juices.

Jad Salts is inexpensive and is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia and sodium phosphate. This harmless salts is used by thousands of people for stomach trouble with excellent results. —Advertisement.

Just Try This When Hairy Growths Appear

(Modes of Today)

Smooth, hairless skin always follows the use of a paste made by mixing some water with plain powdered alum. This paste is applied to the hairy surface 2 or 3 minutes, then rubbed off and the skin washed, when every trace of hair will have vanished. No pain or discomfort attends the use of the delatone paste, but caution should be exercised to be sure that you get real delatone.

ROXBURY BACHELOR MAIDENS TO JOIN IN ORIGINAL TANGO

BACHELOR MAIDS LEARN NEW TANGO

A "bachelor maiden's" tango, something new in dance creations and originated by William H. Powderly, a Roxbury business man, will be a feature of the Winter party of the Kearsarge Club to be held in Intercolonial Hall, Dudley street, Boston Highlands, next Monday evening. Many bachelor maidens and young men in Roxbury are expected to attend.

The Kearsarge Club is composed of business and professional men in the Mount Pleasant section of Boston Highlands and has a clubhouse in Governor Dudley square, junction of Warren and Dudley streets. The Winter party is an annual feature of the club and promises to excel all former functions run under the auspices of this enterprising organization.

Among invited guests are Governor Walsh, Lieutenant-Governor Cushing, former Mayor Fitzgerald, members of the Legislature, City Council, Senator Redmond Fitzgerald, former Representative James T. Kenney of Ward 21, Thomas F. Phelan, Senator Joseph Leonard, Patrick J. Kennedy, and the presidents of different business and political organizations in the city.

The officers of the club are: President, Gene Good; vice-president, John Stuffo; recording secretary, F. J. Downey; financial secretary, James Walleston; assistant financial secretary, John Rogan; treasurer, Thomas Leany. William H. Powderly will have charge of the floor on the night of the party.

SAY POOR WOMAN WAS DEFRAUDED

A poverty-stricken Boston mother, who saved fifty cents by taking five cents a day for ten days out of her baby's milk money and then borrowed $3 from a kind-hearted neighbor, using the total to buy apron material, was defrauded of the scanty profit she expected from her labors by being told her sewing was imperfect, according to the statement of Boston postoffice inspectors.

The case of the mother who saved on the baby's milk was revealed in the crusade the postoffice inspectors are making against some men who advertise for women to do apron-making at home.

One prosecution has resulted in James D. Muir, with office in the Gowen-Sox business district, being held in $1,000 for a continued hearing on February 12 by Federal Commissioner Hayes on a charge of using the mails in a scheme to defraud. The inspectors say that, judging from Muir's enormous mail, he had woman applicants for sewing to the staggering number of 20,000.

Other cases are being investigated. The inspectors say that one man has refrained of late from calling for his mail, although a mass of it has accumulated.

The inspectors are guarding the name of the mother who scrimped on the baby's milk because they may wish her to testify. According to their story, the woman was thus defrauded:

She saw an advertisement for women to make aprons at home. She wrote in answer. A deposit was required before cloth, to be made up into aprons, could be taken.

The woman is very poor. Her husband is sick. They have three children, the youngest an infant.

The mother finally tried the desperate expedient—how desperate only a mother can fully realize—of cutting down the baby's milk at the rate of five cents' worth a day. She did this for ten days and had 50 cents saved. This was not near enough, so she borrowed $3. With the $3.50 she took out apron material, only to have the made-up goods taken back and payment refused on the flimsy pretext that the work was imperfect.

Then, according to the inspectors, the aprons which were declared imperfect, were actually sold by the principal, so that the woman was defrauded of her deposit and of her labor, too.

This case is regarded by the inspectors as the most miserable one of many instances of poor women being cheated in their pitiful efforts to keep the wolf from the door.

MRS. KENT WINS DIVORCE POINT

Mrs. Morgan B. Kent, who was Eleanor R. Rothwell, daughter of James E. Rothwell of Boston, has won her fight for counsel fees in their divorce action, despatches today from Rochester, N. Y., announce. The cross-libel suits have stirred Jamestown, N. Y., where the Kents have lived since their marriage in 1902.

Kent names Dr. William J. Peacock, who has removed from Jamestown to Spokane, Wash. He says that for a period of three years his wife was too friendly with the physician and that she explained his visits by saying they were professional calls. Mrs. Kent brings a counter suit and names two women.

On one occasion, it is alleged, Mrs. Kent went out to a candy store in Buffalo with Dr. Peacock attired in shoes, stockings, a night dress and a large coat. At another time she is alleged to have appeared on the street in his company principally in a lace dress.

The case came before the Appellate Court in New York in the appeal of Kent from an order allowing his wife $350 counsel fees pending the trial of his suit for divorce. On October 1, 1914, Supreme Court Justice Laughlin, sitting in Buffalo, denied Mrs. Kent's application for alimony, but allowed counsel fees. The appellate division has affirmed his judgment.

Their Married Life

Exchanging Holiday Gifts Has a Disconcerting Effect on Helen

Copyright, 1913, by International News Service.

HELEN made up her mind to get her changing of Christmas presents off her mind first and then look for draperies. The only thing that worried her at all was the fact that she had waited rather long to exchange the things, but then she couldn't possibly be the only woman in a predicament of that kind, and besides why did people have to give presents that were not appropriate?

Helen was sure that she always made out her list of presents carefully before she bought anything, so as to be able to please everyone. It took so little time and saved so much trouble that she couldn't understand why others didn't do it. Warren had remarked sarcastically last night when she mentioned the fact that she was going to exchange some Christmas presents the next day that he for one could not understand why women could not be satisfied with what people picked out for them.

"But, dear," she had insisted, "I don't know what to do with the things. It seems like a waste of money to me, when I might be having something I could make use of."

"That's just an idea of yours," he had growled.

"Well, you can't deny that I have too much writing paper—a regular deluge of it this year," she had retorted.

"I have plenty of duplicates, but you don't find me grumbling. Besides, if you had to do this, why didn't you think of it before?"

"But, Warren, you know that last week was filled to the brim, and going out to mother's made me forget everything else."

"All right; have your own way about it. I hope you come out all right, but I don't see how you can."

SHE THINKS PERHAPS IT IS A TRIFLE LATE

As she recalled Warren's disconcerting attitude Helen began to feel as though, after all, it was a little late to exchange Christmas gifts. She regarded the bundles in her arms reflectively. There was a box of writing paper, the least attractive of the many boxes that she received; a very handsome satin laundry bag that did not harmonize with her room, and some cut-glass salt cellars which she did not want, because she had just indulged in silver ones that Winter.

She would go first and exchange the bag. The bag itself was all right but the color was most disappointing. How many times had Mrs Dalton been in her sleeping apartment and had yet failed to remember its color? However, in the matter of color there ought not to be any trouble in exchanging it.

The department store that she entered first was crowded and she made her way to the counter where the different bags were displayed.

"Will you wait on me?" she said to a rather superior-looking clerk with suspicious-looking blond hair, who looked at her with a sleepy, bored expression as she handed her parcel over the counter.

"I want to exchange this bag for one in rose color if you have it."

The woman opened the parcel and looked at the bag reflectively. "I don't think we have any more bags in pink at this price," she said, going to the end of the counter and pulling the stock over to see.

"No, madam, nothing at that price. It was a holiday special. Here is one in pink, though, at three seventy-five."

"What was the price of the one I brought in?" said Helen finally.

"Two fifty, madam. This is very much handsomer, though; don't you think so?"

Helen was trying to decide whether to buy the more expensive bag or to keep the old one. The one in rose color was just what she wanted, but she hardly felt like sparing the money. However, she might as well as long as they were all out of the others.

"All right," she said finally, "I'll take this one, a dollar and a quarter more—is that right?"

The girl took the money and a moment later Helen was walking out of the store satisfied after all that she has exactly what she wanted, and not nearly much more either. Perhaps she could economize on the draperies somewhat.

The writing paper she did not want at all, and she hardly knew what to select in its place. The man who waited on her informed her that its price was a dollar-nineteen, also a special, and, as the place dealt only in stationery and made a specialty of things of that sort, Helen hardly knew what to do. She roamed about the different counters with her credit check. There were all kinds of things for the desk, very handsome pieces of all kinds and sorts in the way of lamps and things that were all most expensive. She determined not to pay any more in order to get something that she liked, and after a great deal of pondering decided on an extra piece for her desk set.

It consisted of a tiny little cup of glass, in which a little roller rested. The idea was to fill the cup with water, place a stamp on the roller as it rolled around in the water, and thus facilitate wetting the stamp. Helen thought the price ridiculous for so small a thing, but it was a novelty, anyway, and would add to her desk set somewhat, so she took it and hurried on her way to exchange the salt cellars.

This last present was really handsome. Helen would have been in love with such a gift if she had not bought others earlier in the season. As it was, she ought to get something really handsome for the exchange. She was certain that the gift must have cost about ten dollars, anyway.

"Were these bought here, madam?" inquired the man as Helen relinquished her parcel before the heavy glass showcase and waited for him to give the price before selecting anything else.

"Why, certainly," she said immediately. "I am sure they were bought here. Isn't that your name on the box?"

"Yes, madam, but we have nothing like the enclosed in stock, and haven't had in some time."

SHE HAS AN EXPERIENCE IN SUBSTITUTION

"Yes, but," faltered Helen, hardly knowing what to say next, "I don't see——"

"It's possible that if it is a Christmas gift the salt cellars have been put into one of our boxes and bought somewhere else."

The man said it with a self-satisfied expression, as though it were a common occurrence and this store really had a reputation that could not be denied. Helen swallowed several times, and the color flooded her face uncomfortably.

"I'm very sorry, madam," the man said, with real concern in his voice. "I am sorry to have bothered you about it at all," said Helen, her natural sense of fairness coming to her aid. "As you say, that is exactly what has happened. I should have ascertained for——"

The man smiled sympathetically. And Helen, with her cheeks on fire, picked up the ill-fated package and hurried out of the store. How horribly embarrassing! and, after all, Warren had been exactly right. How he would exult in her discomfiture if he only knew!

As she hurried along she thought of the wardrobe drawer at home, where she had carefully put away all the good-looking boxes which had held her gifts this year. She had planned herself to use any of them that presented a good appearance next year in giving away gifts. After all, she had decided the day after Christmas, just as good things can be bought almost anywhere else. One does have to pay for the name at any of the more exclusive shops.

Well, there was nothing else for it. She would have to keep the present or else give it away to some one else for Christmas or else save the money that she would have spent on a first prize some time. How fortunate that the woman who had sent them to her was not a member of her club. Everybody would open their eyes at so handsome a prize when she entertained, and would call her extravagant, that appellation so enjoyed by most women. There were compensations, thought Helen, as she went up in the elevator to the upholstery department. She would select her draperies with a clear conscience and let the matter of Christmas fade away from her mind for a whole year. And Warren would never know but what she had had all kinds of success.

Picturesque Heralds of Spring

Republished by Special Arrangement with HARPER'S BAZAR, the Oldest and Greatest Woman's Magazine

BRIGHT red roses, which defy the sun, outline the top of the high crown of a fine Milan straw in the hat above. The brim on the left side curls up to show the hair.

The trotteur hat for Spring, shown below, is an ambitious affair as is demonstrated by this bright red Tagal straw pierced by equally bright quills.

THE grace of the old-time favorite—the leghorn—as shown in the upper picture, is emphasized by the arrangement of the black velvet ribbon.

The charm of the garden-party hat of long ago has been revived in this sand-colored Milan straw, faced in black velvet, and wreathed in large poppies hand-tinted in soft pastel shades.

Up-to-the-Minute Jokes

The hard-working fancy dealer had vainly ransacked the whole of his shop in his efforts to please an old lady who wanted to purchase a present for her granddaughter. For the fifteenth time she picked up and critically examined a neat little satchel.

"Are you quite sure that this is a genuine alligator skin?" she inquired.

"Positive, madam," quoth the dealer, "I shot the alligator myself."

"It looks rather soiled," said the lady.

"That, madam, is where it struck the ground when it fell off the tree."

Biggs, previously a comparatively poor man, had come into a big fortune, so he set about doing things in grand style. Ordering some clothes from his tailor, he told him he would send around his coachman to be measured for a livery.

The tailor scented good business, and thinking his customer would not be proof against flattery, he said:

"Don't you think, sir, it would be nice to have your crest stamped on your coachman's buttons?"

"Crest!" roared the indignant Mr. Biggs. "What do I or my servants want with crests? I've take us for a family of cockatoos?"

Expert Opinion

The commanding officer of a certain regiment was much troubled about the persistent untidiness of one of his men. Reprimand and punishment were unavailing.

Then a brilliant idea struck the colonel.

Why not march him up and down the whole line of the regiment and shame him into decency?

It was done. The untidy warrior, who hailed from the Emerald Isle, was ordered to exhibit himself and march up and down the entire regiment, and the men were told to have a good look at him.

After the ordeal was over the unabashed son of Erin halted, saluted the colonel, and said in the hearing of the whole corps:

"Dirtiest regiment I iver inspected, sorr."

The Fortunes of Fanny

Fanny Finds the Coarse Companionship of the Cook Unendurable

By Virginia Terhune Van de Water

CHAPTER XLI.

Copyright, 1914, by Star Company.

IT was the enforced association with Delia and her friends that at last decided Fanny Hedden to seek another situation.

Not only did she feel that she was taking part in a system that was not right when she silently allowed Delia's companions to partake of her employer's edibles, but she found her very soul recoiling from the speeches and jests that passed among the cook's intimates as amusing conversation.

It was not that the girls and men who came to see Delia were not decent and respectable in their way, but their way was not the way to which the more refined girl was accustomed, that was all. In the class in which she had been born and trained a nice woman was supposed to resent any liberty of touch from any man who was not a relative or the man she expected to marry. Yet the girls with whom she was now thrown laughed when their men friends tried to kiss them or made some affectionate remark.

"Sure, we're as respectable as you, for all your stand-offishness!" Delia exclaimed once when Fanny expressed surprise that the cook had let a man put his arm around her. "That fellow knew I'd just as soon kill him if he got fresh with me. What's the matter with you anyway, that you're always so suspicious?"

Fanny wondered herself what was the matter with her. She could not realize that she was the same girl who had once been Nellie Benson's chum. She felt as if she were an alien everywhere now. She certainly would not be accepted by Nellie and her friends, she told herself, yet she was as surely out of her element in her present surroundings.

One evening Miss Irwin called down the speaking tube that led into the kitchen and asked Fanny if she would come up to her room for some letters that were to be mailed. Would Fanny run out to the corner with them before she went to bed? Mr. and Mrs. Irwin were out for the evening, and Fanny lingered a moment after the kind-hearted spinster had handed her the mail.

SHE FINDS AT LEAST A LITTLE SYMPATHY

"I'll teach you to lay your hands on me!" she exclaimed angrily.

He let her go and staggered back, wrathfully and amazed by the stinging blow.

"D—— little spit-fire!" he exclaimed. "Go to the devil for all of me!"

Before Delia could interpose Fanny had hurried from the room and out into the street with Miss Irwin's letters. She had the presence of mind to leave the latch off the basement door. When she returned to the house she entered cautiously and crept up to her room. So quietly did she go that the cook and her friends did not hear her. As she passed the kitchen door Delia's voice was borne to her.

"To the devil with her, anyway," the Irish girl was saying. "She takes on such airs that I wonder is she a decent sort at all, at all. And her lookin' down on the likes of us—who're far too good to be associatin' with the likes of her."

JUSTICE BOUGHT, SAYS WHIPPLE

There is an irresistible demand for court reforms, that court procedure be simplified, that delays and technicalities be done away with and that the theory and conception of administration of justice which now controls a trial in court be entirely changed, declared Sherman L. Whipple in his address to the members of the Unitarian Club at the Somerset.

"Justice is a monopoly belonging to the lawyers. Justice, therefore, among us, costs money. It can be had only at a price. Not only must he who seeks justice pay a price, but the quality and standard of the justice which he secures depends largely upon the amount of the price paid," he insisted.

BUYING JUSTICE.

"It is notorious that cases in court are often won by the superior skill of one lawyer over another, without regard to the justice of the final result," continued the attorney. "We, therefore, face the fact that the kind of justice a man secures often is able to pay a high price is likely to be quite different from the justice that a man secures who either can pay no price at all or only a moderate fee.

"There is perhaps nothing of greater importance to the social welfare of the community than its methods of administering justice. No State can long survive where justice is not administered satisfactorily and efficiently.

"There are conscientious judges who strive to bring about a result affected as little as possible by the superior skill and ability of lawyers, and there are lawyers who would not conscientiously use their superior ability to bring about injustice to an opponent, but it cannot be denied that our system gives the victory to the superior ability of one of the contesting lawyers, often without regard to the real merits and justice of the cause.

"It is practically the same system that has existed ever since we were a nation and in England for centuries before that."

SUGGESTS REMEDIES.

Speaking of the remedies that should be applied, Whipple declared the recall of judges or judges' decisions by popular vote to be "the most pernicious of all suggested—absolutely unthinkable. "The judges are not at fault," he said. "It is the system, and the judges, bound down by the rules of the system, are more or less its victims."

The speaker said the problem of reforming judicial procedure required most careful discussion. He suggested much could be accomplished if each side to a case were compelled to disclose to the other a full statement of what he expected to prove, a list of his witnesses, a transcript of their testimony, and the cases he intended to cite. He also declared that "privileged communications" by clients to counsel should be abolished, so that it would be impossible for an attorney—an officer of the court—"to argue to a judge or jury a proposition of fact, the contrary of what he has heard stated from the lips of his client."

He said the right of a person accused of crime to be immune from interrogation as to his guilt should be abrogated.

"There is no good reason," he asserted, "why one charged with crime should not be called to the witness stand and interrogated in the presence of the judge and jury as to the truth. To contend the opposite is, again, to contend that the protection of some privilege of a criminal is of more importance than that the administration of justice should be founded on the truth."

DATE FOR BALLET SYLVIA CHANGED

The Delibes ballet of "Sylvia" will be given at the Boston Opera House under the auspices of the Ways and Means Committee of the Massachusetts Woman Suffrage Association, Mrs. Benjamin P. Pitman, chairman, on the afternoon of February 2, and not on the evening of February 1, as was originally announced. The change is necessary on account of the continuation of the Jewett Players at the Opera House. It is likely a second matinee performance of "Sylvia" will be given.

Mrs. A. Henry Higginson, who did remarkable work as a solo dancer in "Pandora's Box," some years ago, will in "Sylvia" have a dancing role as the leader of a group of nymphs. Mrs. Mary G. Kellogg of Winchester is directing the rehearsals.

THREE HELD FOR FATAL SHOOTING

Two men and a girl are detained by the police at the East Boston street station pending the result of the autopsy. Dr. Frances B. Magee, medical examiner, will perform tonight to determine the manner of the death of Florence O'Sullivan, twenty-one, who was found in his room on Webster street, South End, with a bullet hole through his forehead.

The police think O'Sullivan was murdered. His friends claim he shot himself. O'Sullivan was known to the police as "The Rat." The men held are the police say John Conway, known as "The Kid," and Richard Vlancour. The girl is Ida Cowen, said to be Vlancour's sweetheart.

PROBE BROOKLINE SHOOTING.

The police believe the arrests may clear up the mystery surrounding the gang which held up the arms store of C. H. Hildreth, at No. 99 Beacon street, November 25, shooting and killing Charles J. Merrill. Fingerprints will be matched with prints taken at the drug store immediately after the holdup. The men recently confessed, the police claim, to burglary in Allston.

The men were arrested in their room on Waltham street, nearly opposite O'Sullivan's boarding house. The girl, who is but twenty-one years old, lives in Revere with her parents. Newspaper she was with the two men when the police arrived.

A kit of burglar's tools was found in the room. The police claim that it was under stress of fear of the murder for murder the two men made their alleged confession to burglaries in Union square, Allston.

Conflicting stories of the death of O'Sullivan are told by the men held by the police. At first they claimed O'Sullivan had been despondent, and had recently been prevented from drinking a bottle of iodine. This time, they said, O'Sullivan reached his hand into Conway's pocket, drew out the gun, which Conway carried, and shot himself before Conway could prevent it.

Later, their story, the police assert, was that while Conway was standing in front of O'Sullivan's mirror adjusting his necktie, Vlancour took Conway's revolver playfully, and that it was accidentally discharged, killing O'Sullivan.

GIRL TELLS STORY.

Mr. and Mrs. John Swanson, boarders at the house where O'Sullivan roomed, said that immediately after the report of the shot, Conway and Vlancour hurried downstairs and excitedly saying O'Sullivan had committed suicide.

When the police entered Conway's room a few minutes later they found it clean. Bags were packed, and preparations almost completed. The girl's story was:

"Vlancour and The Kid came in, and when I asked how Dick was moaning. When I asked him what was the matter he replied: 'The poor kid has shot himself, committing suicide. Just as he uttered these words Dick moved. They told me they were going to get out of town, and immediately started packing their bags for a trip.

In Conway's room was found a rubber revolver, a watch and several articles of jewelry, as well as burglar's tools. The jewelry and the revolver had been stolen, the police say, alleged to have told the police from a house in Allston. The revolver with which O'Sullivan was shot Conway bought from a man now at Charles street jail.

O'Sullivan and Vlancour came from some place near Newport, and Conway from Quincy. Conway's father is a blacksmith, the police say, and is still living.

The first superficial examination by the Medical Examiner disclosed two wounds, one of which is plainly a bullet hole.

90 LODGERS FLEE BLAZE IN LYNN

A two-alarm fire in the Osmond Block at Liberty and Washington streets, Lynn, forced ninety persons to flee to the streets in their night clothing.

The building is used as a lodging house by Frank D. Haskell and it is believed that the lodgers in the fifty-four rooms were all saved.

Sam Kee Chinaman, who operates a laundry was found overcome in the hallway by a fireman. He was rushed to the Lynn Hospital, where his condition is said to be very serious. Mrs. Emma Pearce, seventy years, an invalid, unable to walk, was carried by policemen from her room on the top floor. She also was taken to the Lynn Hospital, suffering slightly from smoke.

The fire was discovered by John S. Cole, a lodger on the second floor. With his father, William R. Cole, he aroused the other lodgers, and they carried them down the narrow stairway.

The lodger who fled the building, it were given shelter in the postoffice across the street and in the adjoining stable of Ward & Company.

Mrs. Maria B. Watters, who was ill, was removed from the postoffice.

TURN HAIR DARK WITH SAGE TEA

Grandma Kept her locks dark, glossy and thick with a simple mixture of Sage Tea and Sulphur.

The old-time mixture of Sage Tea and Sulphur for darkening gray, streaked and faded hair is grandmother's treatment. Folks are using it now to keep their hair a good, even color, which is quite sensible, as we are living in an age when a youthful appearance is of the greatest advantage.

Nowadays, though, we don't have the troublesome task of gathering the sage and the mixes mixing at home. All drug stores sell the ready-to-use product called "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound" for about 50 cents a bottle. It is very popular because nobody can discover it has been applied. Simply moisten your comb or a soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning the gray hair disappears, but what delights the ladies with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur is that, besides beautifully darkening the hair after a few applications, it also produces that soft lustre and appearance of abundance which is so attractive; besides, prevents dandruff, itching scalp and falling hair.—Advertisement.

Relief for Catarrh Sufferers Now FREE

You Can Now Treat This Trouble in Your Own Home and Get Relief at Once.

How the Remedy for Catarrh Was Discovered.

By the new method the nose and throat are treated by an effective local remedy applied directly to the affected membranes.

The Elixir, taken into the stomach, has a direct influence upon the mucous membranes of the body and cures the disease by removing the cause.

THIS terrible disease has raged unchecked for years simply because symptoms have been treated while the cause of the trouble has been left to circulate in the blood, and bring the disease back as fast as local treatments could relieve it.

C. E. Gauss, who experimented for years on a treatment for Catarrh, found that after perfecting a balm that relieved the nose and throat troubles quickly, he could not prevent the trouble beginning all over again.

On test cases, he could completely remove all signs of Catarrh from nose and throat, but in a few weeks they were back.

Careful experiments and investigations have shown that as the troubles were expelled from the nose and throat, the real cause of the disease was overlooked and in addition time the Catarrh would return stronger than ever. Mr. Gauss has gone way ahead of the ordinary methods of treatment and has provided a remedy that

Removes the Cause

and Immediately Gives Relief to the Nose and Throat

Reese Jones, of Scranton, Penn., says that after trying many other treatments, he used this new method and—"My nose is now entirely clear and free and I am not bothered by the disease any more. The New Combined Treatment is worth its weight in gold."

Temporary relief from catarrh may be obtained in other ways, but the New Combined Treatment must inevitably be accepted for permanent results.

Sarah J. Cape, Mount Pelis, Tenn., says, "I suffered the pains and distress of catarrh for thirteen years and needless to say tried almost every method. But by your new method I was cured and you cannot imagine the joy that has come over me."

DEMANDS N. E. RAILROAD CASH

CONCORD, N. H., Jan. 14.—A resolution was passed in the House of Representatives calling upon the United States Senate to exhaust every legal resource to secure the return of every dollar wrongfully diverted from New England railroads. Representative Frank C. Clement of Warren was the author of the resolution.

In the State Senate Nathaniel B. Drake, Democrat, of District No. 14, was unseated in favor of Rufus M. Weeks, Republican. Drake's election was indicated by the first returns, but a recount gave Weeks a plurality of four.

Representative Chase of Concord in the House introduced a bill to repeal the law requiring railroads to sell mileage books at the rate of two cents a mile. The railroads have attacked this law as unconstitutional.

Insurance Commissioner Josiah Warren of Rochester, legislated out of office yesterday, was formally removed by Governor Spaulding. Robert J. Merrill, a Progressive, who was supplanted by Warren in the last days of the administration of ex-Governor Felker, was again appointed to the commissionership by Governor Spaulding.

New Hampshire Claims Connecticut

CONCORD, N. H., Jan. 14.—A report claiming the Connecticut river for the whole length to the Massachusetts line as included within the limits of New Hampshire was presented by a legislative committee appointed to consider the New Hampshire-Vermont boundary.

The report asserts that the State boundary line is high water mark on the west bank of the river. Vermont, the report concludes, at first claimed that the boundary line between the States was the middle of the river, but later took the position that the boundary should be low water mark on the west bank.

Rehearse Sketch by Actor at Tremont

Carleton Macy, who acts the role of the chief of police in "Seven Keys to Baldpate," at the Tremont Theatre, wrote a sketch called "The Master Thief," which made a hit when it was acted at the Lambs' gambol. It has never been presented in public.

Believing that during the run of "Seven Keys to Baldpate" in Boston the company might be called upon to appear at a benefit, Mr. Macy has cast the sketch with the members of the Baldpate company—the parts are for men only—and the men members of the company are now rehearsing it.

Governor Appoints Son.

AUGUSTA, Me., Jan. 14.—Governor Oakley C. Curtis announced the appointment of his son, Edgar A. Curtis of Portland, as an aide-de-camp on his staff with the rank of major.

OPEN COURT WAR UPON NEW WARDS

Attorney Daniel J. Kiley, acting for John L. Fitzgerald, has petitioned the Supreme Court for a writ of certiorari, setting aside the ordinance passed by the City Council for the redistricting of Boston into new wards. Mr. Kiley says the ordinance is illegal, irregular and void because it is contrary to the spirit and letter of the special law passed by the Legislature under which the Council acted in the matter.

Mayor Curley informed the Council he was opposed to the redistricting as ordered by the Council, and would veto the ordinance if he had power. One of the chief complaints is that the plan consolidates a three-ward into one with more than 5,000 voters. While in others there are not to be more than 3,000.

Opposes Plan for New Lodging House

"I feel that Mayor Curley's plan for another women's lodging house is due to an underestimation and lack of understanding of the work already carried on," declares Miss A. A. Johnson, matron of the Charles Street Home. "There has never been any danger of overcrowding our house and I cannot see the necessity of another home of this kind."

Storm Causes Quincy Gunning House Fire

A gunning stand at Adams Shore, Quincy, said to be owned by a syndicate of Boston sportsmen, was destroyed by fire. The blaze was due to the storm, which kicked up a sea that inundated the stand and undermined the stove, which, in turn, set fire to the structure. The keeper was barely able to save the decoy ducks.

Exposure Causes Lynn Man's Death

Suffering from pneumonia, lockjaw, scalp wounds and various forms of gangrene, a man who registered as Frank Mason, forty, was taken from the Hotel Central, No. 21 Green street, to the Relief Hospital, where he died. It is thought he had beaten his way home from the Maine woods. Superficial examination indicated that several parts of his body had been frozen.

Hungry Burglar Gets Five Years

William Peters is back at State's prison today, this time for five years, because he got hungry, while out on parole, and broke into a lunchroom at No. 71 Broad street. He was using a sledgehammer on the safe, and heard a hand at open when the police arrived. Judge Callahan sent him back to the institution, where he will be held by the State for a term of from five to seven years.

I Won My Battle Against CATARRH

In 24 Hours

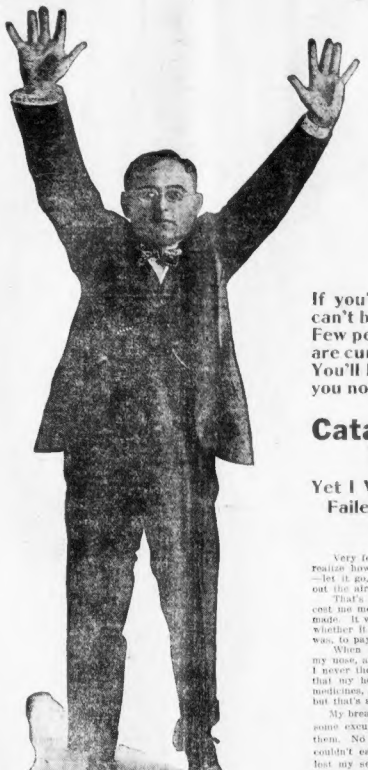
I obtained greater relief than I had ever found in years of search before. Now I am cured, well and absolutely FREE from every trace of that loathsome disease.

After Suffering Years

I conquered the disease that was robbing me of every comfort, every pleasure. I cured myself, I cured my friends in a wonderful, simple, easy way that astonished all who knew me.

I Will Gladly Tell You How FREE!

I Want All to Know How FREE!



You Need No Salves, Lotions, Jellies, Sprays or Atomizers; No Greases, Pastes or Ointments; No Plasters, Masks or Bandages; No Baths; No Massage or Electricity; No Smoke to Inhale and Choke You; No Surgery; No Vibration; No Instrument or Appliance; No Pain or Operation. My way is simple, easy, convenient, pleasant, painless, invisible.

If you've got CATARRH get rid of it. Don't let anybody tell you it can't be cured. It CAN be cured. I know it can; I've proved it can. Few people ever had it worse than I did and I am cured. My friends are cured. Write to me, send me your name and let me tell you how. You'll be surprised to learn the simple, easy way it's done. I charge you nothing for this information. I want the whole world to know.

Conquer Your Catarrh Or It May Conquer You

The Filthy, Disgusting, Hawking, Spitting, Coughing and the Awful Foul Breath Are Not the Worst of It. Catarrh Is a Sneak-Thief That May Steal Your Health and Happiness.

Do you realize that catarrh is a serious disease? More ill-health than any other one cause? Do you realize that almost everybody suffers more, or less, is only the beginning, only the first mild symptom, only a warning of approaching danger?

Do you realize that it is perhaps responsible for more ill-health than any other one cause? Do you realize that catarrh of the nose, from which almost everybody suffers more, or less, is only the beginning, only the first mild symptom, only a warning of approaching danger?

Do you wake up in the morning with nose clogged up and your throat stopped up with an accumulation of poisonous mucous phlegm thrown off by the inflamed membrane of the air passages? Do you have to "k-a-a-w-k" and choke and gag and spit after you get up in order to get your head cleared out? If you do, heed that warning. It may not give you much trouble NOW—it may not seem important. But it IS, it IS, it IS. I tell you it IS important. I KNOW it is because I, myself, have been all through it. I tell you if I realized this when I first had these early symptoms, I might have saved myself torture, misery, suffering and embarrassment that no words can describe.

If your catarrh has already become worse than this, if you now find yourself hawking and spitting all day long because of the constant dripping of the mucous filth in your throat, if you have a taste in your mouth which destroys your appetite for food and a breath that makes people turn away their heads when you go near them, if your hearing is affected, if you have those awful, blinding catarrhal headaches, and other advanced symptoms there is all the more reason for you to get busy and get busy RIGHT AWAY. You may think THESE symptoms are troublesome and you may think of doing something to get rid of them, but take it from me, even THESE symptoms are NOTHING as compared to what catarrh symptoms CAN be when neglected. If you could only know and realize the frightful penalty I paid for neglect of early symptoms you would think and think hard. Yes, you'd do a lot of thinking and you'd do MORE than think. You'd be mighty busy trying to find something to kill and clean out the millions and billions of germs that are nesting, breeding, feeding, thriving in your nose and throat and filling these parts with their disgusting, poisonous, health-destroying filth.

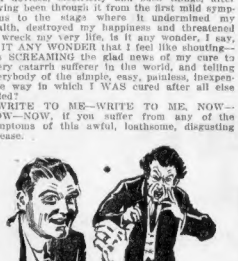
In the daytime you know that the poisonous catarrhal mucous drops into your throat because you have to spit it up. Now think of what happens at night when you are asleep? Do you think for one minute that these little gluttons—the catarrh germs—sleep when you sleep, do you think the poisonous mucous dripping in your throat stops when you are asleep, or do you think it all remains in your throat till morning when you wake up and spit it out? Don't fool yourself. A lot of it does collect in your throat, true enough, but a lot of it also gets DOWN YOUR THROAT and INTO YOUR STOMACH. And that doesn't happen only ONE night, but EVERY night.

Is it any wonder that people have CATARRH OF THE STOMACH, CATARRH OF THE BOWELS and CATARRH OF OTHER VITAL ORGANS? Is it any wonder that the appetite fails, that digestion fails, that the bowels fail to act properly, that the blood becomes impure, that strength and vitality are lost, that health is ruined and lives are wrecked by the ravages of catarrh when it once gains a firm hold upon the system?

Is it any wonder that after suffering its most frightful and disgusting tortures for years, after seeing my friends shun me as they would a leper, after having tried everything under the sun that I could hear of and wasting a lot of money for salves, lotions, inhalers, instruments and devices, electricity and such things, after having been through it from the first mild symptoms to the stage where it undermined my health, destroyed my happiness and threatened to wreck my very life, is it any wonder, I say, IS IT ANY WONDER that I feel like shouting—yes SCREAMING the glad news of my cure to every catarrh sufferer in the world, and telling everybody of the simple, easy, painless, inexpensive way in which I WAS cured after all else failed?

WRITE TO ME—WRITE TO ME, NOW—NOW—NOW, if you suffer from any of the symptoms of this awful, loathsome, disgusting disease.



"Act Now! Conquer Your Catarrh as I Have Conquered Mine. Be Free, Happy."

Let me tell you how I fought catarrh germs every minute of the day and night, how I fought them while at work, while out in company, while at the theatre and other places of amusement, while awake and asleep, without anyone ever seeing me do it, without anyone ever knowing it, and how I finally conquered the disease and freed myself from its abominable clutches, to my own unbounded joy and the surprise of all who knew me.

A FEW WORDS ABOUT MYSELF

I don't want anybody to think from what I say that I claim to be a great doctor, a wonder-working scientist or a performer of miracles. I don't claim to have any mysterious power.

I am NOT a doctor. I can't work miracles any more than you can, and I haven't got any mysterious power over disease or anything else.

I'm just a plain, common, everyday business man, who has found out, after a lot of suffering and a big waste of money, a simple, easy, yet most effective way to fight catarrh, a way that cured me, cured my friends and cured scores of other people.

I know by my own experience that catarrh is a nasty, miserable, stubborn disease. I know that ordinary methods of treatment often have no effect. I know what an awful time sufferers have trying to find something that WILL CONQUER catarrh, and I know there are thousands of sufferers who will be glad to learn the simple, easy way I conquered MY catarrh after everything else I tried proved a failure.

I want to tell every catarrh sufferer in the world how I did it. So don't hesitate about writing me. SEND ME YOUR NAME AND ADDRESS and let me tell you. And DON'T WAIT—DON'T DELAY—DON'T PUT OFF.

You've got my address in front of you right now—right there on the coupon. Fill in the spaces and mail it right off—before you lay this paper down. It will only take you a minute and then it will be done. If you wait you'll forget it, the paper may be thrown away or you may lose the address and this announcement may not appear here again.

Catarrh Ruined My Health And Almost Wrecked My Life

Yet I Was Cured by a Wonderfully Simple Means When All Else Failed. I Am Now Free and I Know That Others Can Be Free. Send Me Your Name and Let Me Tell You How.

Very few if any people ever have catarrh any worse than I had it. None but those who have it bad can fully realize how much suffering it can bring. Most people who have mild catarrh are inclined to do just as I did at first—let it go, let it run on without treatment or perhaps with only the occasional snuffing of a little water to clear out the air passages.

That's the greatest mistake that anyone can make. I consider it the greatest mistake I ever made. It certainly cost me more in suffering, loss of happiness and comfort, as well as loss of money, than any other mistake I ever made. It will be one of the greatest mistakes YOU ever made if you neglect YOUR case, it makes no difference whether it is very mild or very severe, and you will never know how TRUE this is until you are called upon as I was, to pay the bitter penalty for your neglect.

When I noticed the first symptoms of catarrh I paid little attention to them. I used to snuff salt water up my nose, and because that would clear out the passages and make breathing easier, I thought I was getting relief. I never thought about it getting worse until my folks began to tell me about my awful breath. I began to notice that my head was clogged up nearly ALL the time. Then I began to look around for a remedy. I bought patent medicines, inhalers, syringes and ointments. I used to be squirting dope into my nose all day long. I got relief, but that's all I did get. As soon as I stopped using these things I would be as bad off as before.

My breath was awful and my best friends would make some excuse to get away as soon as I would go near them. No one knows how this hurt me. I got so I couldn't eat, nothing tasted good, in fact, I just about lost my sense of taste and also my sense of smell. I sniffled and I hawked and I spit continually until I was ashamed, but what could I do? I could not help my disgusting habits any more than any other catarrh sufferer can.

I felt filthy and loathsome. My stomach went back on me and my food would not digest. I was weak, had headaches and was half sick all the time. I was melancholy, had the blues, lost ambition and felt like sneaking off in some obscure corner of the world away from everybody.

All the time I was trying first one thing, then another; I read about catarrh in medical books. I tried things that everybody said were good, and I tried things nobody else ever heard of. I was desperate. I had to make my living and I realized that unless I found a cure I might soon be unable to work, and I certainly had no desire to die in the poorhouse.

Then came the happiest day of my life—the day I found the simple, easy, wonderful means by which I was absolutely cured. The very first day I felt that my deliverance was at hand because the effect was absolutely different from anything else I ever used. My new-found method enabled me to fight the disease every minute of the day and night without continually poking and squirting stuff into my nostrils. And O, the relief! The English language has no words that express the joy I felt, when I found that I could throw away all my contraptions and my salves, when I found myself getting better every day, when folks began to notice and tell me that my breath was not nearly so bad, when I began to enjoy my food again, and found that people did not run away when I went near them.

Almost before I realized it my cure was complete. Every symptom of catarrh was gone. My head was clear, there was no more dripping in my throat, no more headaches, no more bad taste, no more bad breath. I felt fine. Everybody said I looked better. I could eat like a truck horse, and I got fat and strong again. People began to ask me what it was that worked such a wonderful change in me. I told them and many of them tried my plan with the same wonderful results.

I felt so good I wanted to tell everybody. I thought of the thousands of persons who are suffering just as I suffered, and how they would thank me if they only knew what I knew. I made up my mind to tell them, and I am telling them. I have already told thousands, and I want to tell you. I know you will thank me the longest day you live. I want you to know the simple, easy means I found to cure my catarrh. I want you to send me your name, so I can tell you.

I want you to know the indescribable joy that freedom from disgusting catarrh brought me and will bring you. I ask no money for this information—it is FREE—you are welcome to it, and I want you to have it. Write me today, send the coupon below or drop me a note or a postcard. Simply say: "Sam, I want to know how you cured your catarrh," and write your name and address.

WELSH DECLARES CROSS HAD BETTER OF BOUT WITH JOE SHUGRUE

WELSH GIVES CROSS BEST OF SHUGRUE

By FREDDIE WELSH.
World's Lightweight Champion.

NEW YORK, Jan. 14.—Leach Cross defeated Joe Shugrue in a slashing ten-round bout at Madison Square Garden last night. In my opinion Leachie had five rounds, his opponent three and two were even. Cross forced the fighting, something unusual for him and landed the much harder blows.

In the second and tenth rounds Leach was at his best and rocked the Jersey boy time and again. In fact, Shugrue was very tired during the entire tenth period.

Besides carrying his usual hard right hand smash Cross, for the first time that I ever saw him in action, displayed a left hook that had much steam behind it.

Shugrue found Cross a mark for his left jabs, but they failed to slow Cross up or make him stop forcing at any time.

CROSS WAS FIRST TO LEAD.

Leach was the first to lead in the opening round and landed a light left to the head. A second after Shugrue jabbed and repeated. Both missed wild swings; then Shugrue jabbed Cross and followed with a straight right to the face. On the breakaway Leach was rocked with a short left hook.

It was Shugrue's round.

In the second round Cross scored a hard left hook to the jaw and repeated with two more. Another left, high to the head, made Shugrue hang on. Shugrue stepped back and scored with a pretty straight left. Cross mixed it fast and drew blood from Shugrue's mouth.

A hot rally followed, and at the bell Cross swung a hard right to the jaw that sent Shugrue to his corner dazed.

Cross' round.

BOTH LANDED HARD PUNCHES.

They rushed to close quarters in the third round, and Cross had much the better of a hot mixup. Cross hooked to the jaw and almost dropped Shugrue. Cross landed with a left to the jaw, and Shugrue retaliated with a left that was much harder to the jaw.

Shugrue landed three left jabs to the face. Both men were tired and went into a clinch.

Cross' round.

They rushed out of their corners in the fourth and Cross scored on a left to the body. Shugrue scored with two straight lefts to the head. Joe then landed three left jabs without return.

Cross was wide open for Shugrue's left and received many jabs without offering a return. Shugrue landed a straight left and followed with two more left hooks to the jaw.

It was all Shugrue's round.

SHUGRUE LANDS HARD ONE.

After a lot of fiddling in the fifth round, Shugrue stabbed a straight left to the face. Leach backed around the ring looking for an opening, but missed a hard swing.

It was an even round.

They rushed to the centre of the ring in the sixth and Leach landed a left to the body and repeated with another in the same place in a clinch.

Cross landed a left and right on the head and received a hard right to the head in return. Cross scored with a left hook and Shugrue countered with a left to the body.

It was an even session.

Shugrue stabbed the face with two lefts in the seventh, and a lot of fiddling followed. Cross forced the fighting, scoring with left and right to the head.

Cross landed a hard left to the head, and as he jumped in Shugrue caught him off his balance and Leach fell to the floor.

JERSEYITE FORCES FIGHTING.

It was not a knockdown.

Leach had all the better of the fighting. Shugrue landed left and right to the head and followed with a hard right swing to the jaw. Cross rushed and swung both hands to the body.

It was Cross' round.

They rushed to close quarters in the eighth and Cross missed two left hooks to the head. Shugrue sent a stiff left to the face. Shugrue landed three times with the left and repeated with two more straight lefts on the jaw.

It was Shugrue's round.

They rushed to a hot mix in the ninth round, both landing heavy body blows. Shugrue landed a right to Leach's jaw and Cross scored with a left hook and a right upper cut. Cross forced the fighting and landed a hard right to the jaw.

HOT FINISH TO GREAT BOUT.

Shugrue landed with a hard left swing and sent Cross to the ropes. Cross then landed left and right to the head and followed with two straight lefts to the jaw. Joe then jammed two lefts to the face.

I gave Cross a shade in this round as he forced the fighting and scored the harder punches, although Joe landed the oftener.

Shugrue was tired and landed left to the stomach backed Joe up. Cross was pushing and Shugrue missing with both hands. Cross worked his way to close quarters and jabbed two hard ones to the body. Shugrue jabbed his left to the face. At the bell Cross was pounding the body hard.

This was Cross' round.

Rival Mexican War Heads In New Fight Over Jack Johnson

EL PASO, Tex., Jan. 14.—Because it would increase the war chest of Villa, the Carranza government will oppose the entry into Mexico of Jack Johnson, the American negro prize fighter, who is booked to meet Jess Willard in Juarez on March 6, according to Andres Garcia, the Carranza consul here.

Garcia has telegraphed to the "First Chief" that Johnson was a fugitive from justice in the United States and suggested that he must present recently issued American passports before he be allowed to pass through any port held by the Carranza forces. Johnson at present is at Buenos Ayres, Argentina, or on his way north.

"The Rabbit's" Column
By Walter J. Maranville
SHORTSTOP OF THE BRAVES

I see that my old friend Hughey Jennings, manager of the Detroit Tigers, says that the Braves are going to win the pennant again in the National League.

That's where I have it on Hughey. Hughey, for I said the self same thing last Fall right after the World Series, and the more I think of it the surer I am that my prediction will come true.

We won last year after the worst start any champion team ever had. This season, take it from me, we will get away flying and make them all follow the way.

There's not a reason in the world why we should not. We will have a better team to start with than we had even when playing the Athletics last Fall.

In the first place, there'll be no need for Manager Stallings to put in months trying to drill into the head principles of inside baseball into our heads. That was all done last season, and we got started to start where we left off, and we were going some when the season ended.

The spirit that carried us through last season will be built around more than ever because of the confidence that the cleanup of the Athletics has put in every member of the team.

Then we'll have Sherwood Magee to help us out, and I believe we will be some help. He will give our attack a whole lot of punch. We had a lot of punch last year, as the scores of the Athletics know well, but that's one thing in baseball you can't have too much of.

The players on our team, except Evers, are all young fellows just coming along. They'll all be better in 1915 than they were in 1914. That's only reasonable.

The other teams too will have a whole lot of respect for the Braves that they didn't have till mighty near the end of last season. We had to fight all kinds of odds last year, but next season we have the advantages all on our side.

I have heard George Stallings say a hundred times that the thing he would like to do more than anything else would be to take a championship team that he had built up and start a season with it in perfect form, and I'm the way he's going to start this season, and unless a whole lot of ball players around the circuit get better quick pretty close to shooting the league to pieces.

So far as managing goes, he has the whole world at the post. He showed in the last part of the season how it is done. Now that he has his own team of champions, put together under his own direction, there's no telling just what he will do.

For my part of it, the season can't open too soon. It's going to be a whole lot of fun to go around that circuit with everybody afraid of you.

Critics in major and minor league cities all over the country are scoring the Federal League's suit against Organized Baseball, which will be heard by United States Judge Landis in Chicago on January 25. It is set forth that the national game has been well governed by the commission and the two big leagues; that the sport was lacking in popularity and that the promoters were losing money when the peace agreement was drafted in 1903.

These critics insist that the fabricated charges against baseball in the sequent years by patronizing the games to a wonderful degree and that no fault could be found with the management of the sport. It is further pointed out that the Federal suit is intended to ruin baseball or force the big leagues to admit them to the fold. In short, the prevailing opinion is that the government of the game should not be disrupted.

National Soccer Here Is Likely

George Collins, secretary of the North Massachusetts and New Hampshire State Football Association, has received notice of a special meeting of the national and international committee of the United States Football Association to be held at New York tonight.

MOTOR NOTES

By J. C. KERRISON.

At the meeting of the board of directors of the Bay State Automobile Association, held yesterday afternoon at headquarters, George W. McNear in the chair, plans for the future prosperity of the organization were discussed at considerable length. The reports of the chairmen of the various committees were gratifying and indicated that the movement to secure at least one hundred members before July 1 was well under way.

It is the intention of the present board of officers to bring the association back to its old time shape and with that object in view they have made a most undertaking to have at least half a thousand members by the middle of the Summer. The entertainment committee is working along certain lines which will be announced soon and, as a pleasure, its intention being to hold a dinner talk at least once a month.

Plans for the greatest transcontinental tour in the history of motoring have been mapped out by J. J. Cole of Indianapolis. Through his efforts, it is believed, the road will be dotted with hundreds of automobile owners traversing the United States to the exposition cities, San Francisco and San Diego.

Cole's work, he is receiving the co-operation of the officials of both the San Francisco and San Diego Expositions, and also the aid of the various highway and good roads associations throughout the country. Twenty Cole owners already have signified their intention of making the trip.

HARVARD STARS AT IRISH MEET

The complete Harvard track team will compete in the big Irish-American A. A. games, Saturday evening, January 23, in Mechanics Building. Yesterday Manager Oathues received word from Manager Greenough of the Harvard team that the Crimson would enter its full team in the open events. It is the intention of the Harvard manager to secure all the competition he can for the Crimson athletes prior to the B. A. A. and indoor intercollegiate games.

As yet opponents have not been selected for the varsity and freshman relay teams. According to present plans Holy Cross will likely be picked to meet one of the Crimson teams.

In the 1,000 yards event for the Mayor Curley trophy, which will be the feature of the meet, many of the Metropolitan cracks will compete. The management are arranging to have Abel Kiviat, Ted Meredith and the other New York stars meet Jimmy Powers over this distance.

As Powers is once more back in the fighting class a contest is expected to prove one of the best of the season.

Entries will close on the evening of January 22. The blanks should be sent to B. R. Osthues, 28 Hayward place.

BIG CATCHER'S MIT FOR GOAL TENDER LATEST IN HOCKEY

Dick Hurtz, Harvard's blonde hockey player, who is a promising contender for goal tend on the varsity seven, has introduced an innovation into Crimson hockey circles. Dick has equipped himself with a first baseman's mit, which he wears on his stickless hand. Being a crackerjack catcher, Hartz figures that his big glove will play an important part in his campaign to make the guardian position of the Crimsons' net.

Adams' Accusers Forced to Admit Charges Are False

NEW YORK, Jan. 14.—Charges that Platt Adams, Olympic champion in the standing high jump, has sold or otherwise disposed of certain of his prizes, contrary to the rules of the Amateur Athletic Union, were thrashed out in part before the registration committee of the Metropolitan Association of the A. A. U.

The makers of three affidavits on which the charges against Adams were based were examined at some length and subjected to a searching cross-questioning by Adams' counsel. Most of their assertions, they admitted, were made on information and belief and without proof positive.

Peter L. Schenck, P. J. Glynn and Max Theimer were the three men who claimed that Adams had violated the A. A. U. rules by selling and pawning prizes.

Mayer Wins Third Game from Hall

Joseph Mayer, former American class A amateur billiard champion, defeated Nat Hall, the Boston amateur, in the third block of 400 points of their match game of 2,000 points at Mish Murray's Imperial rooms.

Six points separated the men at the finish of the game, which took 27 innings. Mayer winning by virtue of getting his 400 with a run of 19 in his inning. Hall finished out his block, making his required six points easily. Hall 1,194, Mayer 920.

Carr May Manage Purdue Baseball

LAFAYETTE, Ind., Jan. 14.—Charles C. Carr, former manager of the Indianapolis American Association club and tutor with the Federal League baseball here, is one of the candidates for the place of baseball coach at Purdue this Spring.

Bob Wicker, an old White Sox player, and Jack Rothgeb, a pitcher of Illinois alumni with major league experience, are among the others mentioned.

Officials Named for C. A. C. Game

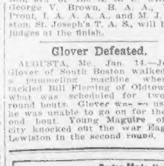
Glover Defeated.

AUGUSTA, Me., Jan. 14.—Johnny Glover of South Boston walked into a machine when he tackled Bill Fleming of Oldtown for what was scheduled for two six-round bouts. Glover was so used up he was unable to go on for the second bout. Young Maguire of this city knocked out the war Eagle of Lewiston in the second round.



PREPARE FOR BIG ARTILLERY MEET

The big drill shed of the South Armory is being transferred into an athletic field. Everything necessary to be used for the artillery meet, which will be held on January 23, has to be supplied. The seating section, holding about 1,000 persons and which was erected last year, will be put up again.

The track and corners are being carefully laid out. Major Shedd discovered among the non-commissioned staff of the corps two engineers, George C. Capelle and Harry S. Wright, who are graduates of the M. I. T., and when in Tech were members of the track team. They are surveying the floor and accurately placing the points, so that from their technical and athletic education a track satisfactory to everybody is assured.

Bowdoin College has sent in their entry and a relay race will probably be arranged for them.

Entries will positively close on Friday. Those not postmarked on that day will be rejected. It is impossible to make up the list and get programs properly printed when names are received after that date.

HOCKEY NOTES AND GOSSIP

CONDITIONS GOVERNING THE MATCH between the B. A. A. and the Arena Hockey Club here next Saturday night have been made by the B. A. A. and Harry Devonia of the Arena, who said there will be no change in the rules of the Amateur Hockey League, of which the Lightning team, a former member of the A. A. U. champions, is a member.

NO BODY CHECKING WILL BE PERmitted, which will keep the game free from roughness. The 20-yard neutral zone extended from corner to corner and the rule to the front will be adopted in this game. This now permits a defending team to clear the puck from behind the net from the opponents' territory and start up the ice without the necessity of an offside play.

DR. GEORGE W. TINGLEY AND FRED Young, coach of the Dartmouth hockey team, have been signed by Manager Ralph Winsor of the Arena to referee the game. The two have the best reputation as puck chasers in the country, and the Arena people would have no others.

THIS GAME SHOULD BE ONE OF THE best ever witnessed in this city. The Arena team has a fast, clever aggregation that can play and in this respect the Arena team is much ahead of the B. A. A. team, as it is a combination team and has been together for a long time. The Lightning team, which is composed of Captain Chadwick at goal for the Unions, will also be a fast team, playing the Arena men.

THE MELROSE HIGH SCHOOL HOCKEY team contemplates a trip into Maine in February for a series of games. The team is also playing a schedule which will include games in Dorchester and Milton. The Dorchester game will be played February 19 and return at Milton February 19 and return at Milton February 22.

THE WAR BETWEEN THE NATIONAL Hockey Association and Pacific Coast League is breaking out again and President Patrick of the latter organization threatens to make a big raid on the Eastern circuit. The trouble was referred to the league at Ottawa last week, but failed to report to the Coast League after he had been given the right to make a raid. Patrick is said to be in touch with the Ontarios and at the start of the season.

PRESIDENT PATRICK OF THE PACIFIC Coast League has announced that he will not wage war for players of a few seasons ago will not wage war for players of a few seasons ago will not wage war for players of a few seasons ago

Bowlers Rush in Prize Scores

First Week of Tourney Near End

FAIR ROLLERS IN CLOSE RACE FOR HONORS

The first week of the Boston AMERICAN'S great prize candle pin bowling contest closes tonight at midnight and, judging from the scores already turned in, a classy field will line up for the roll-off, which will be held one week from Saturday.

Enrollment blanks and scores came in with a rush yesterday and it is expected that tonight will be a record-breaker on the alleys, with a big batch of high scores from new candidates.

The early mail today brought three scores from the Chauncey alleys and all were well over the 300 mark. Two of the men were in for the first time while the third member of the party had sent in his qualifying score and enrollment blank earlier in the week.

The rollers and their scores are: Frank Yuris, No. 35 Chauncy street, with 368; R. F. Smith, No. 14 Court square, 321, and T. J. Allingham, who also gave the alley address on his blank, with 371.

The fact that the tournament is open to the women as well as the men has made a decided hit with the fair sex, as it is the first chance they have had to compete in a big tourney.

FACTS FOR BOWLERS.

The competitors should bear in mind, the bowling week runs from Tuesday midnight to Thursday midnight. This is the short week of the tournament, as it did not open until last Monday.

The ten men bowlers who make the ten highest scores for three consecutive strings will be announced in the Sunday AMERICAN. They will meet in a one-string roll-off the following Saturday. The prizes will be awarded to the three high men in the roll-off.

A roll-off will not be necessary to decide the women's prize. The woman rolling the highest three strings on any alley in Greater Boston will be awarded the special prize.

Every roller in Greater Boston, man or woman, is invited to enter the contest.

COSTS NOTHING TO ENTER.

It costs nothing to win a prize and as this is the biggest and most extensive bowling contest—or series of contests—ever held in New England, it is important that each and every bowler send in his or her enrollment blank as early as possible.

The following prizes will be awarded each week:

First Prize	$20.00
Second Prize	10.00
Third Prize	5.00
Special Woman's Prize	5.00

CHAUNCY GETS A FIRMER GRIP IN CITY LEAGUE

By J. P. MURPHY.

THOUGH without the services of its two stars, Paul Poehler and Archie Walsh, the Chauncy team secured a still firmer grip on first place in the City Bowling League last night and now leads the field by fourteen points.

Chauncy's gain was brought about by its three-point victory over Murray, while Adams Square dropped four points to Boylston. The Square peggers were clearly off form and failed to show anything like City League bowling.

As a matter of fact every team in the big circuit, with the exception of Carruth and Casino, were away off color. Casino rolled the highest total of the night, 1528. Carruth turned in 1526. These were the only 1500 scores of the evening.

Groves of the Casinos led the individual peggers in the City matches, with three strings of 326. Harry O'Brien of the Boylstons was a close second. Three-hundred scores were as scarce at hens' teeth. Only twelve of the thirty bowlers got within the sacred line, and some of them just squeezed by.

Paul Poehler came within twenty-five pins of his own world's record for ten strings at bowling last night, when he bowled 1199 in an exhibition tandem match at Boyd's Alleys, with Archie Walsh as his partner. The Chauncy cracks rolled Day and Hancock, the celebrated leaders of the town league, and won easily. The results of the contest were:

Hamlet rolled without stopping for food or sleep, although he ate an occasional sandwich during the period.

Lynch Mentioned as New Head of Feds

HARTFORD, Ct., Jan. 14—Because of the visit of Alexander Bannwart, a Federal League emissary, to New Britain, it was rumored in that city that Thomas J. Lynch, one-time president of the National League, was being considered as head of the Federal League.

This theory was strengthened by the fact that several days ago Lynch stood for a published statement, the gist of which was that the Federals must be recognized.

Messrs Billy Russell and Bob Claffy, both New Yorkers, have been chosen as officials for the Harvard-Princeton hockey series which starts Saturday in New York. The Crimson team will not leave Cambridge until Saturday morning, and will enter the match without practice on the St. Nicholas surface.

Bowdoin May Again Take Up Hockey

BRUNSWICK, Jan. 14—An effort is being made toward the development of a hockey team at Bowdoin College next Winter. Bowdoin boasts of good material, but not since 1907, when Kid Dresser, the old Roxbury Latin boy, entered the college, has a varsity seven represented the institution.

Bey and Hockman in Mat Go Tonight

Isando Bey, the Big Turkish grappler, and Frank Hackman, the clever German giant, both report themselves in fine fettle for their finish match tonight at the Grand Opera House.

The contest is easily the most important ever staged in the theatre, and as both men are among the stars of the world the battle promises to be red hot from start to finish.

ALLIES' BIG GUNS DESTROYING BELGIAN TOWN OF WESTENDE

boats disappeared as soon as they received our fire.

"In the continuation of activities on January 8 our troops again attacked the heights of Vregny and cleared the plain of the enemy. In a pouring rain and sodden clay, trench after trench was stormed until after dark the enemy had been driven back to the border of the plain. We took fourteen officers, 1,120 men, four cannon, four machine guns and one searchlight. This brilliant feat of arms by our troops was accomplished under the very eyes of the uppermost war lord.

"Northeast of Chalons the French again attacked yesterday morning and afternoon. Strong forces which at Perthes penetrated our trenches were repulsed, counter attacked and driven back with heavy losses.

"We took 160 prisoners in the Argonne. In the Vosges nothing of importance has happened. In the eastern theatre of war Russian attacks southeast of Gumbinen and east of Loetzen (East Prussia) have been repulsed. We took hundreds of prisoners.

"The situation in Northern Poland is unchanged. Our attacks west of the Weichsel (Vistula) are being continued. Nothing important has happened on the east bank of the Pilica."

WITHDRAW ACROSS AISNE.

The Paris official report, issued at 3 p. m., admits that the allies have been obliged to withdraw from the north to the south bank of the Aisne east of Vregny, because they have carried their bridges away.

The statement says that near Ypres detachments have blown up a farm which served as an ammunition station for the Germans. The official communique follows:

"Artillery fire. The cannonade has not been very sharp for that reason.

"In Belgium fog has impeded action. a farm which served as an ammunition around Nieuport and Ypres. Some detachments of Belgians have blown up the depot for the enemy to the southeast of Steuvenswekerke.

"Between the Lys and the Oise, in the region of Lens, our artillery has dispersed sappers and trench diggers working in the environs of Angres and has bombarded effectively the trenches located to the southeast of the shrine of Notre Dame de Lorette.

"To the north of Solssons violent combats were fought all day. The action was localized on the ground between the two ridges located to the northeast and to the northwest of Crouy, of which we hold only the first slopes. On the left our counter attack made some slight progress, without having been able, however, to make an appreciable advance.

BRIDGES CARRIED AWAY.

"At the centre we maintain our position around the village of Crouy despite repeated efforts by the enemy, but to the east before Vregny we have been forced to withdraw. The persistent swelling of the Aisne has carried away several bridges and ferries which we had thrown across the stream, putting the lines of communication of our troops in a very precarious condition. Under these circumstances we have established ourselves to the south of the river in the section of ground lying between Crouy and Missy, with the heads of the bridges upon the north bank.

"On the right and left banks of the Aisne there has been a slight cannonade.

"In Champagne the region of Perthes continues to be the theatre of local actions for the possession of German trenches of the second or third line. To the north of Beausejour we have blown up some mine plants to halt the work of the enemy.

"The enemy at that point, believing himself attacked, massed his forces on us, upon which we opened a violent artillery and rifle fire.

"There is nothing to report on the rest of the front."

General von Kluck, the German general who led the drive of the invaders against Paris last September, is reported in the driving operations north of Solssons on the German side. His military ability is more highly respected by the commanders on the side of the allies than that of any other Teuton general in the western theatre of war.

French batteries have again been placed in the city of Rheims to shell the German positions in that region, according to a Berlin dispatch, and this has compelled the German artillery to bombard the famous French city again. A statement issued at the German War office says that Rheims was being shelled with the utmost energy, 150 shells having been thrown into the city on Wednesday, but that efforts were being made to spare the Cathedral.

Prisoners taken in Flanders by French troops state that 12,000 German officers have already been killed and that the formation of new corps has been seriously hampered for this reason.

RUSSIANS IN EAST PRUSSIA.

The renewal of the Russian offensive in East Prussia is regarded by military experts as a move to lighten the pressure that the Germans are bringing against the allies in the west.

Sharp fighting took place on this occasion, the Russians making distinct progress in the direction of Radzanowo, which is about fifteen miles south of Mlawa, on a branch of the Vistula.

Upon a long battle line which comprised the towns of Kolno, Biskupa, Zakrzew and Sucha, the Germans put up a furious resistance, the contest being preceded by violent artillery fire. According to the Petrograd report, the resistance was easily overcome.

Vienna says that the Russian infantry has been constantly driven back in attempts to cross the Nida River in Southern Poland.

Official announcement was made today at Vienna that the Russian troops who invaded Hungary through Uzsok Pass had been defeated by Austro-Hungarian troops in the valley of the upper Ung River and had retreated toward the pass. The Russians are being pursued in an attempt to cut off their retreat, it is stated.

On the other hand, according to a dispatch from Bucharest, Rumania, the Russians in Bukowina are advancing upon Hungary in two columns, via Gura-Humorului and Kimpolung. ANTI-KAMNIA TABLETS FOR ALL PAIN

"The efficiency of any drug" says Dr. C. F. Robbins, "is known to us by the results we obtain from its use. If we are able to control pain and diminish the speed of respiration, we certainly are warranted in its use. One of the principal symptoms of all diseases is pain, and this is not the least merit of anything applies to us for, i. e., something to relieve his pain. If we can arrest this promptly, the patient is most likely to trust us for the other symptoms which will effect a permanent cure. This remedy which I have found largely in my practice is Anti-kamnia Tablets. Many and varied are their uses. I have used them in the most severe occasions and have never been disappointed. I found them especially valuable for headaches of malarial origin, where quinine has failed to relieve. I also used them for the aftereffects of typhoid. CURLEY PLANS BOSTON BOOM

Mayor Curley told of his plans for booming Boston at the twenty-seventh annual dinner of the Boston Jewelers' Club, held at the Copley-Plaza, with 175 members and guests in attendance.

Mayor Curley stated he intended to urge establishment of a publicity board which will persistently place before the people of New England the advantages to be derived from trading in Boston as opposed to New York.

He favored designation of a certain month for each State when the board shall concentrate its publicity efforts in that State and seek the business.

John N. Cole, speaker of the Massachusetts House of Representatives, advised those present to have confidence in the ability of Massachusetts to keep its lead in manufacture and commerce. Other speakers were Arthur D. Hlatky, secretary of the State of Massachusetts; Sanford Bates of the Boston Chamber of Commerce; George S. Smith, ex-president of the Boston Chamber of Commerce; Charles H. Eaton, Boston construction engineer, and the Rev. R. Perry Bush of Chelsea. James H. Blake, president of the club, was toastmaster.

Pure Food Bill Is Entered by Wall

Pure food legislation to prevent the use of dangerous acids in fruit syrups and to prohibit the use of saccharine as a substitute for sugar was introduced today. The legislation was by Representative George J. Wall of Boston.

Representative Wall seeks to prevent manufacturers and dealers from loading syrups and beverages with formaldehyde, salicylic, boric or other dangerous acids. Violation of the provisions of either bill would be punishable by a fine of from $50 to $100 and by imprisonment ranging from 60 days to six months.

The Governor also urged cooperative loan association for farmers, under the supervision of the State Banking Department.

Mr. Capper is the twentieth Governor to hold office in the State, but the first native Kansan to reach the office.

BILL TO TURN OUT ASHLEY'S BOARD

An effort to overthrow the reputed political organization built by Charles S. Ashley, "perennial Mayor of New Bedford," was launched in the Legislature today by Mayor Edward B. Hathaway, who defeated Ashley at the last election. Mayor Hathaway has filed a bill to turn out of office the present license commissioners of New Bedford and to allow him to name a new commission with still trading in Boston as opposed to New York.

"Ashley may fight the bill, but I don't know that anybody else in New Bedford would," said a member of the New Bedford delegation at the State House today. "Perhaps the liquor people would like to hold the commissioners themselves of the burden, anyway."

The license triumvirate serves for five years, a member retiring or expiring every second year. Ex-Mayor Ashley named an appointee for a vacancy two days before his successor was inaugurated.

Sunday "Fit for Tussle with Devil"

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 14.—Billy Sunday today said that the revival meetings in this city have been the most strenuous he has ever conducted.

"But," he said, "I'm fit to grasp the devil by the horns and cast him out of this sinful city."

During each service that Billy speaks at the Tabernacle, he is forced between three and four miles in his rounds, according to Jack Cardiff, his physical trainer. Joseph Spiese, the builder of tabernacles for the Sunday revivals, returned to this city today after concluding arrangements for building tabernacles in Paterson, N. J., and Syracuse, N. Y. He told Mr. Sunday that both cities are aroused to a pitch of enthusiasm at the prospect of his coming there.

William Beggs of Woburn Dead at 72

William Beggs, one of the wealthiest citizens of Woburn, died at his home at No. 620 Main street there today, after a brief illness. As a leather manufacturer he was widely known. He was a native of Canada and seventy-two years old. He had been a resident of Woburn for fifty-four years and was elected to the Legislature from that city in 1896. He belonged to the Masonic order, several clubs, was a bank director, a member of the Boston Chamber of Commerce and a founder of the leather house of Beggs & Cobb. He is survived by a widow and three sons.

One Bottle His Own; Milkman Fined $35

Daniel J. McMahon, a West Newton milkman, has one bottle at least with his name on it. That was brought out in Waltham District Court today when an inspector for the Massachusetts Milk Association testified that an examination of 40 bottles of Mahon's wagon showed one bearing McMahon's name and 39 bearing the names of other milkmen. McMahon pleaded not guilty to a charge of illegal use of milk bottles, but was adjudged guilty and was fined $35.

JURY GETS MRS. ROGERS' STORY

NEW YORK, Jan. 14.—Mrs. Annie Dupre Roquemore Rogers, first wife of Leroy Kinion Rogers, lawyer, of No. 76 Park row, related to the Grand Jury today the part she played in the domestic tangle which finally caused Mrs. Ida Sniffen Rogers to fatally poison her two babies and then attempt to commit suicide. The testimony the divorced Mrs. Rogers gave to the Grand Jury was outlined by her sisterhand to District Attorney F. J. Martin of the Bronx.

Mrs. Rogers said she met Leroy Rogers when he became a member of her father's law firm in Montgomery, Ala., her home. After their marriage they came to New York. He continued the practice of law and renewed the acquaintance with Mrs. Caroline Giddings Rogers, sister of Professor Franklin H. Giddings, now preparing to sue him for divorce.

MET AS COLLEGE MATES.

He had previously met Miss Giddings through her brother when the brother and Rogers were college mates here.

Rogers' conduct toward his wife was changed soon after he met Miss Giddings, again. He confessed his love for his wife no longer, she said, and asked her to divorce him that he might be free to marry Miss Giddings. This she did. Her husband provided her with a large sum of money to go to Reno and procure the divorce, and after their divorce he still gave her money and educated their son, Dorlys Rogomore Rogers, now nineteen years old.

Before the divorce, Mrs. Rogers explained, she was a good friend of Ida Sniffen Walters, who visited her. Asked if her friend would be a fit wife for Rogers at that time, Mrs. Roquemore Rogers said apparently he did not.

Her divorced husband told her he was entirely happy with his second wife, but he frequently came to see his divorced wife, she said. Asked when she first learned that he was in love with Mrs. Ida Rogers, the first thing she said it was when Mrs. Ida Rogers told her nearly three years ago that she was about to become a mother.

TOLD OF INFATUATION.

According to the first wife, Rogers told Mrs. Caroline Giddings Rogers of his infatuation for Mrs. Ida Rogers, and the first wife also was told that his second wife entered into an agreement to divorce him in favor of the third woman whom he loved. She said the agreement was broken and that her husband was entirely free for Mrs. Ida Sniffen Rogers. The first wife said her divorced husband ought now to marry Mrs. Ida Sniffen Rogers.

Mrs. George H. O'Brien, for several years a close neighbor and friend of Mrs. Ida Rogers, was another witness before the Grand Jury after Mrs. Rogers Greenberg and Dr. Harold Freund, who treated her in Lebanon Hospital; Miss Carrie, No. 104 West One Hundred and Sixty-ninth street, a nurse in the Lebanon Hospital, and Miss Olive, who sold bichloride of mercury to Mrs. Walter Rogers on February 26. The purchase consisted of twenty-five 7½-grain tablets.

Dr. William Grant Hague, personal physician of Mrs. Ida Rogers, said that her heart had been affected, and that she might not recover. The hospital physicians, however, still not positively certain that she will recover, have in mind the coroner that she will be able to leave Lebanon Hospital when the inquest will be held next Wednesday in the coroner's court.

Seek Vote Fraud in Cannon Election

WASHINGTON, Jan. 14.—The Department of Justice authorized Distrist Attorney Bell, at Danville, Ill., to conduct a thorough investigation of alleged vote frauds in the Eighteenth Congressional District, where former Speaker Joseph G. Cannon was elected to succeed Representative Frank T. O'Hair.

The investigation is the outgrowth of charges and investigations just concluded at Terre Haute, Ind., in which evidence showing the use of the Illinois vote in Indiana was brought out. It is said that the evidence will show similar conditions of fraud existed in probably four congressional districts in Southern Illinois, and that members of Congress will be involved.

The Department of Justice will cooperate with Mr. Keach in the investigation to the limit of its ability.

Political Boss Goes Promptly to Prison

OSSINING, N. Y., Jan. 14.—Joseph Cassidy, ex-Democratic boss of Queens County, and William Willett, of Long Island City, who were convicted, respectively, of having sold and bought a nomination for Supreme Court Justice in the campaign of 1911, and whose appeal from the sentence imposed upon them was denied, were lodged in Sing Sing Prison today. It was by their own request that they began their sentences of eighteen months so promptly. They said they wished to get it over with as soon as possible.

HARVARD DELUGE TO SAVE OLD TREES

Professor R. T. Fisher, in charge of the trees at Harvard University, reported to President Lowell that the increasing deficiency of natural moisture has been the largest single influence in the ruin of the old elms. Borings made under the direction of Professor George C. Whipple, disclosed the serious actual conditions; and the use of nearly a hundred thousand rubber feet of water in irrigating the yard, with the resultant putting out of new shoots, demonstrates the most urgent remedy. The continuous use of artificial water supplies is pointed out as necessary in the Old Yard.

New plantings are planned for Spring, pits having been prepared for a line of trees around the margin of the Memorial Hall Delta. Other new trees will be put in to fill the gaps in the new plantation on Holmes Field, and still other plans are under consideration.

Rapid progress with the reforestaring of the University grounds, it is suggested, depends to a large degree on the willingness of graduates to supply necessary funds.

All-the-year-round pursuit of the leopard moth, which has already been captured and destroyed to the total of more than five thousand specimens, is the next greatest requirement. Given these things, proper use of poison spraying, and a few other necessaries, Professor Fisher concludes that "with continuous care and protection trees can be grown in the Yard and maintained in fairly healthy condition up to a reasonably old age of at least seventy-five years and probably more."

One of the elms he says that "the natural adaptability of the elm to such a situation as the Harvard Yard makes it suitable a specimen for future planting as any of the others which could be considered."

A Few Years of Rock Breaking Is the Best Cure for Home Breaking

The Penitentiaries Are Crowded, but There Is Still Room in Them for the Wife Deserter and the Wife Stealer

Copyright, 1915, by the Star Company.

Because the laws passed to deal with a man who tires of his wife are not enforced, two innocent children have been murdered by poison and a woman faces a trial for her life.

There should be little sympathy for the woman.

She left a husband who treated her honorably to find a home with a man who, she knew, intended to treat her dishonorably.

She brought two children into the world, knowing that they would have to bear the stigma of illegitimacy.

AND WHEN THE MAN BEGAN TO TIRE OF HER, AS HE HAD TIRED OF HIS WIFE, RATHER THAN FACE DESERTION SHE KILLED THE CHILDREN AND TRIED TO KILL HERSELF.

The woman's position is not a happy one. She knows now something of the feelings of the woman whose husband she took away.

But her case will be attended to by the law. She will have to pay in some way or other for her folly and for her crime.

The case of the man seems to be different. He has violated the moral and the criminal law, but apparently nothing is to be done about it.

He has broken up two homes—his own and that of the man whose wife he stole—and yet for some curious reason he is going his way freely about the city, and is even talking of making "reparation" by marrying the woman he has brought into this trouble.

If this man were a bigamist, who had married two women, he would be sent promptly to the penitentiary, and kept there till he had time to reflect on the sacredness of marriage.

But he is not a bigamist. His crime is as great as or greater than bigamy, BUT IT IS NOT THE PRACTICE TO ENFORCE THE LAW AGAINST SUCH MEN AS HE.

Why it is not remains to be explained.

Until men like the fellow who figures in the present disgraceful affair in New York are arrested, tried, convicted AND SENT TO THE PENITENTIARY, they will continue to break up homes and to bring disgrace upon their victims.

Until white slavers among the rich are made to pay the same penalties as the wretches who make white slavery a business, there will be no real protection for women in any city.

The future of this country depends upon the sanctity of the home.

As long as men are permitted to laugh at all the moral laws the country is in danger.

The home breaker is an enemy to society. But he can be reached by the law and he should be reached by the law.

It is possible to send every one of the scoundrels who break homes to the penitentiary, where they can spend a few years breaking rock.

That is the course that honest, able district attorneys should adopt and follow vigorously, even though they arouse howls of protests from rich and influential men of the Stanford White type, with whom they interfere.

A rigid enforcement of the laws now on the statute books would have placed at least one gentleman where he does not endanger the community.

It is too late for that now, but it is not too late to make him an example for people of his sort, or to safeguard homes from the evil influence of him and his kind.

THE RUSHERS

By WILLIAM F. KIRK

INTO their clothes and out of the flat
They rush to begin the day;
Each move a strain, they rush for the train
That rolls on its downtown way.
Reaching the shadows of spire and dome,
They rush all day—and they rush back home.

After they dine they rush for the play,
And after the play is o'er
Madly they rush to some grand cafe,
To drink and to eat once more.
Never a thought of the heavens above,
Never a moment for human love.

Then comes the day when they do not rush,
But, dreamless and strangely still,
They ride in the brooding funeral hush
To the marble town on the hill.
What is the use of it all? I say;
Why did they rush who are dead today?

In-Shoots

When you cannot flatter a woman by calling her good-looking it is better to "bent it."

There is no agent of the devil who is more willing than a jealous woman.

The man who eats only one meal a day does not require the flavoring of rich sauces.

It is sometimes better for a man to be able to laugh at a dull story than tell a funny one.

When a fellow attempts to mix business and pleasure he always gets an overdose of pleasure in the mixture.

Most every man seems to imagine that the day of reckoning is to be postponed in his own case.

The woman of forethought can keep the Easter millinery in mind during the Christmas holidays.

It is often difficult for the fellows who have been born great to keep up the expansion.

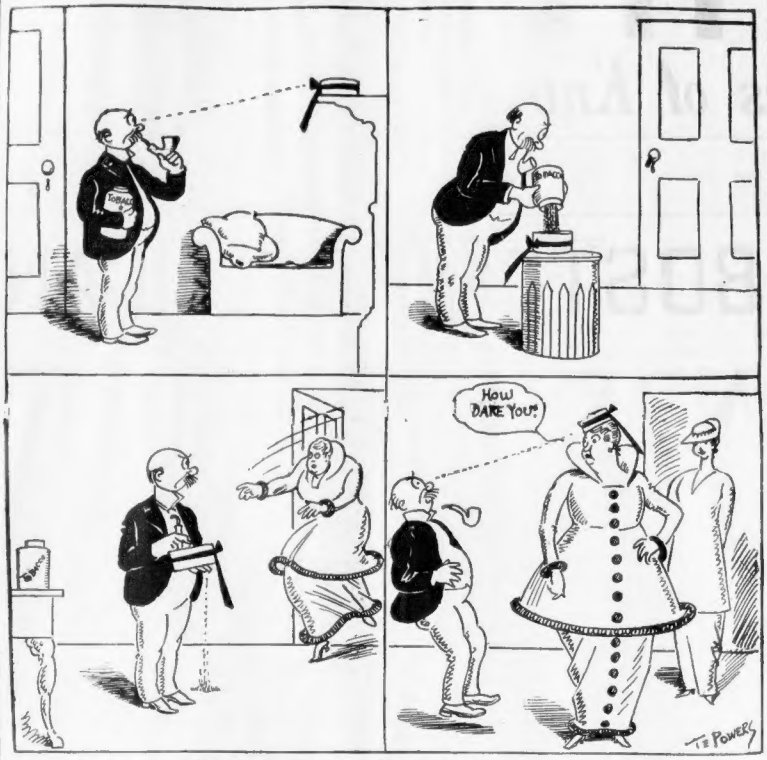
The school of experience is not a "pay-as-you-enter" institution, but collections are always made somewhere along the line.

The man who continually howls about "bad business" is doing his part to make it bad.

Bungalow Doesn't Follow the Fashions

By T. E. POWERS

Copyright, 1915, by International News Service.



"How thoughtful of Mrs. Bungalow!" said Bill to himself, as he saw what looked like a new tobacco holder with a cute little ribbon around it. But when Mrs. Bungalow came in and found her new hat full of tobacco there was something doing. Bungalow can't observe the fashions very closely. Any one with his eyes open would have recognized the small lids the girls are wearing now. Did any one ever see a girl with a medium-sized hat? We never have; the hats are always so big you can't see the girl, or so small you can't see the hat.

Great Mysteries of Nature and Science

The Salt of the Earth Goes Continually Into the Ocean, and Never Comes Out, but the Solid Crust Is Filled with the Salt-Skeletons of Former Seas

By GARRETT P. SERVISS

"HOW far from the coast does salt water penetrate the earth? I found salt water 2,000 feet below surface in the north central part of Pennsylvania, while drilling an oil well.—E. M."

The salt water that you found in Pennsylvania did not arrive there by an underground route from the ocean, but derived its salinity from some deposit of salt in a neighboring part of the earth's crust.

The ocean is not a salt factory, but a salt storehouse. The salt that it contains comes from the land and is washed down into the sea basins by rain and rivers. Once in the ocean, it remains and accumulates there, because it has no way to get out, and new supplies are constantly being added to it. The heat of the sun causes the surface water to evaporate and to form clouds over the continents, which clouds finally condense into rain, and thus return into the ocean as water, carrying more salt along with it.

The ocean has been millions of years in collecting the quantity of salt that it now contains, which has been leached out of millions of square miles of land by the action of the water, sent forth as clouds from the sea and returning as sediment-laden liquid. The sea is a pocket for the salt which is open for ingress, but closed for egress. At the present time the oceans contain, on an average, say three and a half per cent. of salt. If they were suddenly dried up their basins would be found covered with a thick deposit of salt.

Lakes Gather Salt

But there are greater acquisitors of salt than the ocean—not as measured by the total amount gathered, but by the percentage. Large enclosed lakes, especially if they lie in sunny regions where evaporation is rapid and continual, often gather enormous quantities of salt. Thus the Great Salt Lake of Utah, having no outlet, but several river inlets, and lying in a basin-shaped valley, consists of water greatly exceeding sea water in saltness. The degree of salinity of the water has varied notably since the lake was discovered by early explorers, the change according with the amount of water flowing in during relatively wet or dry periods. The percentage of salt has varied from fifteen up to about twenty-four.

The famous Dead Sea, in Palestine, having also no outlet, and lying, moreover, below sea level, has accumulated salt until the percentage of salinity has been reckoned as high as 26. But the quality of the salt and the nature of the elements entering into it varies more or less in these inland collections from that of the ocean.

Ancient Sea Beds Buried

In times past the surface of the earth has witnessed the formation and disappearance of many lakes and inland seas, distributed over all of the present-day continents, and when these dried up they left their beds covered with deposits of salt. Subsequent changes in the earth's crust have buried the ancient sea beds and lake beds, which now constitute stratified deposits of salt.

The most celebrated of the salt deposits in the eastern United States belong to what geologists call the Salina system. It was laid down by a shallow inland sea, which existed in the latter part of the Silurian age, many millions of years ago, it extends from Canada through central New York, Pennsylvania and Maryland, reaching also westward into Ohio. Alternating with the salt deposits are beds containing gypsum and stores of petroleum, dating back to equally ancient times in the earth's history. In fact, the first discovery of petroleum in Pennsylvania was made through artesian wells filled with brine.

Took Salt from Sea

In the early history of this country, before the salt deposits around Syracuse, in the ancient land of the Onondagas, were known to white men, the settlers along the coast had to take their salt from the sea. It was obtained by evaporating water in kettles, and the process was so easy that every considerable family had its salt-making apparatus. Finally the great "salt-licks" of the Indians were discovered, and the State of New York purchased from the Onondaga tribe the land underlain by the saline deposits.

There are immense stores of solid salt in many parts of the earth's crust, left by former bodies of water. In Austria you may visit enormous caverns where salt is mined like coal, and where roofs, walls, columns, passages, all consist of salt whose surfaces glitter in the artificial light as if it were strewn with diamonds. So it is not wonderful in boring for oil that you should strike salt water. It is only a reminder of dead seas and lakes that wimpled in the sunlight of an earlier period of the earth, and then laid their dry bones of salt to rest deep in its rocky bosom.

What Has a Wife a Right to Expect of Her Husband?

Fourth in Series of Articles by Dorothy Dix on Matrimonial Obligations---"Wild Oats" Sowing Must Not Be Resumed After Marriage

By DOROTHY DIX

A WIFE has a right to expect that her husband shall have finished sowing his wild oats before he marries. Unless a man has made up his mind that he is tired of running with the boys and prefers the lady he has asked to be his wife to any other woman in the world he does a most dishonorable thing to marry.

Possibly in the olden days, when a man really did a woman a favor by keeping her from being an old maid, there was some excuse for the man who married a girl and put her down in a home, or a boarding house, and left her by her lonely while he went off to amuse himself with his boon companions. No such excuse prevails now. The unmarried woman is very comfortable as she is, thank you, and doesn't need to get married for an occupation or a support.

Furthermore, she wouldn't if she had the faintest idea that a man was marrying her to leave her, and just to get somebody to keep a comfortable place for him to come home to when everywhere else shuts up. Therefore, if a man is going to spend his evenings at his club, or playing poker, or has an incurable propensity for taking blondes out to dinner and supper and automobile riding, in plain justice he should stay single. There is no compulsory marriage law.

Woman Has Right to Expect Husband Will Make Her His Comrade

A wife has a right to expect that her husband will make her his comrade and friend, and give her some of his companionship. If a man is of the opinion that his wife has not the intelligence to understand his mighty masculine intellect, or see the point of his wit, he should not have married her. He should have picked out somebody in his own class, and at least have given her an opportunity of marrying some man on her own plane. Then she might have had a little companionship.

If, however, he thinks she isn't a fool, and very few men do think that of their wives, then it is up to him to make some efforts at trying to be chums with her, and it would surprise most husbands nearly to death if they would only find out what awfully good fellows their wives can be.

The average American business man at home makes a clam seem absolutely loquacious. He rushes through his breakfast at lightning speed, generally with the newspaper in front of him; gives his wife a dab on the cheek by way of a kiss, and bangs the front door behind him. He comes home late to dinner, eats it in silence that is often only broken to scold at the children or criticize the cooking. Then, with cigar and paper, he settles himself for the evening and only grunts a monosyllabic reply when his wife tries to talk to him. For conversation and general companionship she might just as well have a stuffed Teddy bear for a husband.

That isn't the kind of a happy evening at home that the girl who married him dreamed of having, and the wonder of it is that more women whose husbands never talk to them, and never try to entertain them, and never evince the slightest interest in them, don't hunt up some other man who will make himself agreeable.

Both Have Right to Expect Respect for Their Personal Liberty

A wife has a right to expect that her husband will respect her personal liberty as she does his.

"Liberty" in marriage does no mean "license" any more than i does anywhere else. It simply means that a wife should have just as much right to freedom of thought and act within the prescribed bounds of propriety as a husband has.

Matrimony is bound to be a series of concessions, but because a woman is married is no reason why she should be forced to sacrifice her own personality, and become a weak echo of her husband. Provided she does not exceed her allowance she should have the privilege of spending her money as she likes, and so long as she does not run the thing into the ground and interfere with her husband's comfort she should have the right to join whatever clubs she pleases, or pass her leisure in the manner most agreeable to herself.

A husband soon begins to hate the wife who polices his every move, and a wife entertains pretty much the same feeling toward the husband to whom she has to go for permission for everything she does, as if she were a child. The tyrant on the hearthstone is never loved, no matter what the sex.

A woman has a right to expect that her husband will do his share toward making a happy home. It's a big job, making a happy home. It's more than any one person can do, and especially it's more than any woman can do alone.

Has Right to Expect Husband to Aid in Making Home Happy

A woman has a right to expect her husband to help her make a happy home. The old recipes for the construction of ideal family life always tell the wife to go about with a glad, sweet smile, and to keep all of her little worries out of sight. That's good so far as it goes, but it doesn't go far enough, for no woman can make a happy home, even though she grins like a Cheshire cat, if the man of the house is surly and grouchy or swearing around like blue blazes, or if he makes his home a dumping ground for all the accumulated nerves and worries of the day.

It's just as much a man's part to smile as it is a woman's. It is just as much up to the husband to make some active effort toward making the home happy as it is the wife, and whenever you find a real, bright, sunshiny home, take my word for it you are going to find some big, cheerful man in it, doing his share of the radiation of good cheer.

That's the kind of a husband that every woman has got a right to expect; but, oh, me! oh, my! what a rare animal he is!

THE THORN

By LILIAN LAUFERTY

SO close the roses tangled
I could not see the thorn;
Red roses all dew-spangled
In fragrance to me borne;
I stretched glad arms to break them—
And then my hand was torn!

So filled my days with rapture
I could not dream 'twould wane;
Each fleeting joy I'd capture
And danced in Pleasure's train;
I stretched glad arms to take them—
And, lo! my hands held—pain!
